

246 Are Declared Null and Void

Troopers Will Appeal Bruhn Promotion Edict

Appeal from a ruling of Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn of Kingston, declaring null and void the promotions of 246 state policemen to the rank of sergeant and five to lieutenant, will be led in Albany, according to a State Police spokesman.

Justice Bruhn ruled that an examination late in 1963 was "not in accordance with the requirements" of the state constitution, nor with "judicially developed tests and standards." The Court gave State Police Supt. Arthur Cornelius until Aug. 1 to put into effect the stipulation of the order. A major shakeup in the State Police organization appeared possible if Justice Bruhn's ruling is affirmed on appeal. The order, signed in Albany on Thursday, reportedly placed 178 additional promotions within the State Police in jeopardy.

Former State Trooper John H. Donohue of Peekskill, who previously had one state police promotion declared unconstitutional, had challenged the constitutionality of an examination and promotional procedure set up by Cornelius, and his position was upheld by Justice Bruhn.

Not Served on Lefkowitz
A spokesman for the State Police told newsmen the division had been notified of Justice Bruhn's judgement, which was filed in the Albany County clerk's office. The court's decision had not been served on the Attorney General last night.

"Upon service on the attorney general, his office will file notice of appeal and will make application for a stay of execution of the judgement," the division spokesman said. The spokesman contended that all state policemen promoted to sergeant or lieutenant after the test in November, 1963, will remain in their present positions, if a motion is granted, until a final determination.

"If the motion for appeal is denied," the division spokesman said, "then those men promoted will be placed on a provisional status pending promulgation of a new set of regulations, conduct of an examination and establishment of a new eligibility list."

Former Trooper Donohue, who charged that the Nov. 30, 1963 examination was unconstitutional, was discharged from the State Police for alleged insubordination.

Failed to Show Necessity
Justice Bruhn found in his ruling that Superintendent Cornelius "has failed to show or prove any practical necessity whatever for his promulgation and use of promotion regulations and system whereby the competitive elements are diluted by the assignments of an aggregate weight of 40 (out of 100) to examination factors constituting judgments largely subjective."

Justice Bruhn also ordered that "any and all actions of the superintendent founded or based upon or taken pursuant to 'the promotion system' including examination announcements, promulgation of regulations, eligibility lists established and all appointments made 'are annulled, cancelled and declared null and void.'"

The court directed Cornelius to cancel the promotions and appointments and to effectuate new promotion regulations "in accordance with judicially developed tests and standards" of the state constitution by the August 1 deadline.

25 Affected Earlier
Donohue once before compelled Cornelius to throw out a set of promotion regulations the superintendent had promulgated after he took office in 1961, as being unconstitutional. In that case less than 25 sergeants were affected by the court's ruling. They were placed on a provisional status pending new examinations.

Justice Bruhn's ruling, in effect, declares unconstitutional and null and void all announcements of promotion examinations under the present rules and regulations, all examinations, all eligibility lists, all promotions to the rank of sergeant and all promotions to higher rank made as the result of the regulations.

Johnson Prods Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has told Charles de Gaulle the United States will go ahead with plans to weld an Atlantic partnership — whether France stands aloof or not.

Johnson mentioned neither the French president nor France by name, there was no doubt about his intended target when he said Friday: "There are some efforts today to replace partnership with suspicion, and the drive toward unity with a policy of division."

"We will go all together if we can. But if one of us cannot join in a common venture, it will not stand in the way of the rest of us."

The President chose the 20th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe for what aides called his first major policy speech on Europe since his inauguration Jan. 20. The Early Bird communications satellite carried the address across the Atlantic, and it was broadcast to the American people.

In outlining a six-point agenda of "urgent and unfinished business" for the Atlantic community, Johnson said, "First we must hasten the slow erosion of the Iron Curtain."

"We must work toward an agreement with the Soviet Union," he said. "Our firmness in danger has shown that the door to conquest in the West is forever closed. Thus, the door to peaceful settlement is now open."

Rejects U. S. Pledge
Johnson also repeated a U.S. pledge to work for the right of self-determination of the German people.

Germans on both sides of the Iron Curtain, he said, "must be allowed freely to choose their own future."

Johnson's references to France appeared to reply to De Gaulle's April 27 speech, in which the general — without naming the United States — stressed his country's independence of Washington and its refusal to accept American leadership.

Said Johnson: "The peoples of the Atlantic will not return to that narrow nationalism which has torn and bloodied the fabric of our society for generations."

"The kind of nationalism which would blight the hopes and destroy the dream of European unity and Atlantic partnership is in the true interest of no free nation on earth."

In listing the erosion of the Iron Curtain as the first of six items of unfinished business, Johnson announced — without getting specific — he will recall the Rosendale Constabulary said that about 30 stitches were taken to close wounds in Beesmer's head. He said that it took about 20 minutes to extricate Beesmer from the wreckage of

Planes Stage 5 Raids, Marine Killed by Cong

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — More than 160 U.S. Air Force and Navy planes staged five raids against military targets and road communications in North Viet Nam today, raining more than 230 tons of bombs against a variety of targets.

The largest raid was carried out by 40 United States Navy A4 Skyhawks from the carriers Coral Sea and Midway. The planes dropped about 100 tons of bombs on the Vinh military air field, 160 miles south of Hanoi.

Second Strike on Field
This was the second strike against an airfield in the three-month air war against the Communist north. Earlier Vietnamese air force Skyraiders hit the air base at Dong Hoi air field near the frontier. A spokesman did not say whether any Communist aircraft were on the ground.

A U.S. Marine was killed when Viet Cong guerrillas fired on a group of leathernecks touring hamlets just outside Da Nang air base, handing out chewing gum, candy and school books.

In two separate incidents in central Viet Nam, Communist land mines killed a U.S. Army Special Forces man and seriously wounded two other American soldiers.

Draw Heavy Fire
A Marine spokesman said an eight-man group headed by a lieutenant colonel went to the Le My village complex with five Vietnamese, including the regional and village chiefs and interpreters.

The Marines had no trouble in the first hamlet, but as they entered the second, they drew heavy fire from a house, where an estimated five Viet Cong riflemen were hiding.

Attacking the house, the Marines lobbed a grenade inside, apparently without injuring the Red guerrillas. One Marine enlisted man, a scout, ran to the rear of the house to head off any guerrillas leaving the back way. Marine spokesmen said he was fatally wounded by one rifle bullet in the chest.

About five Viet Cong ran from the house and the Marines opened fire. One of the Communists stumbled and fell, but got up and escaped with the others.

It was believed that a company of Marines was sent into the area afterwards in an effort to track down the Viet Cong.

Le My village is near Red Beach Two, where the American Marines made their original landing in force two months ago. It is known as a Viet Cong area.

The Marines have been making repeated patrols and have been carrying out extensive psychological warfare efforts to win over the villagers.

The Army casualties from Viet Cong land mines were suffered by U.S. advisers accompanying Vietnamese troops.

Two U.S. Army Special Forces enlisted advisers were on an operation in Binh Dinh Province, 300 miles northeast of Saigon when one of the Americans stepped on a mine and was killed. The blast wounded the other American, who was evacuated to a field hospital.

Loses Foot to Mine
In Vhu Yen Province, 230 miles northeast of Saigon, a U.S. Army officer stepped on a mine which blew off his left foot.

Peking's New China News Agency quoted a Hanoi announcement as saying North Vietnamese shot down three U.S. F105 jet fighter-bombers Friday. The announcement said "many others" were damaged.

The report, monitored in Tokyo, said "waves of the U.S. F105 jet fighters, coming from Thailand, bombed some places along the communication line in the north part of Thanh Hoa Province."

U.S. officials Friday announced a raid by 41 of the F105s and 40 fighters of the Thanh Hoa highway and railroad bridge 80 miles south of Hanoi. They said one of the F105s was shot down but the pilot reached the South China Sea, where he parachuted and was picked up safely by an American amphibious plane.

Red Domination Sad V-E Monument: Ike

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other Communist leaders gathered in East Berlin today for a giant V-E Day parade as nations on both sides of the Iron Curtain celebrated the 20th anniversary of Nazi Germany's defeat.

Kosygin, who shared the spotlight with Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz of Poland and Deputy Premier Lu Ting-qi of Communist China, used the occasion Friday to blast the United States for its military activities in Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic.

"They (the United States) want to make capital out of the difficulties which have arisen in the world Socialist (Communist) movement and it would be wrong to underestimate these devious plans," Kosygin said. He apparently was referring to the ideological differences between the Soviet Union and Communist China. He rejected claims "of some people that only a new world war could retain the unity" of the international Communist movement.

He lashed the United States for "violating the most elementary rules of international law" by its actions in the Congo, for landing troops in the Dominican Republic and "for the barbaric bombing attacks on the Republic of (North) Viet Nam."

The Chinese deputy premier also assailed the United States and added a demand for a peace treaty with West Germany to officially end World War II and a solution to the Berlin problem.

East Germany's deputy premier, Willy Stoph, praised French President Charles de Gaulle, welcoming his proposals for a European settlement with

Klan Member to Face New Trial Next Fall

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers says a Ku Klux Klan member whose murder trial ended in a deadlocked jury will be tried again.

Survivor's Story:

Relates Terror After Twisters Hit Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "When the twister hit, I just lay there in that ditch and prayed. I never prayed so hard in my life."

Richard A. Tyson's prayers were answered. His wife and young son were not among the 13 numbered dead today from tornadoes that tore through Minneapolis suburbs — nor even among the 400 injured.

One of Many Destroyed
But Tyson's trailer at Fridley Trace was one of 280 mobile homes and more than 200 other residences destroyed when, perhaps six twisters ripped into the earth at 24 separate locations to the southwest, west and north of the city during Thursday's supper hour.

Tyson described the moments of terror before he found his family safe:

"I saw my trailer and three others picked up by the twister. I saw the roof of a house fly past and hit a transformer on a telephone pole. It was just like the Fourth of July."

Homeowners and rescue workers continued to dig through mountains of wreckage today, fearful that they might

10 for Conviction
Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, of Fairfield, Ala., was free under bonds totaling $60,000 after a jury trying him in State Court for the killing of a white woman civil rights demonstrator failed Friday to agree on a verdict.

Ten of the 12 male jurors had voted for conviction. The other two held out for acquittal. Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard declared a mistrial 24 hours and 20 minutes after he had put the life of Wilkins in the jury's hands.

The first-degree murder charge could have brought the death penalty.

Flowers, the state's chief legal officer, said he expects the crewed trial again in the fall term of court in September.

Two other Klan members also charged with slaying Viola Liuzzo of Detroit, Mich., are awaiting trial. The charges against them also have been carried over to the September term. Those defendants are Eugene Thomas, 42, and William Orville Eaton, 41, both of Bessemer, Ala.

May Be Deterred
The three Klansmen also are under federal indictment on civil rights charges. They are free on $50,000 bond each on the federal indictments and $10,000 on the first-degree murder counts in State Court. No trial date has been set on the federal charges. Flowers expressed belief that

Assistance Offered, Some Already Have Filed

Area Supervisors Advised of Poverty Benefits Plan, $273,000 for County

Officials in area counties are giving thoughtful consideration to participation in the Community Action Program of the War on Poverty and some already have filed applications for federal assistance to finance Head Start Programs.

Bernhardt S. Kramer, field consultant for the State Office of Economic Opportunity, Albany, with offices in the Ulster County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets, said today his office has sent communications to every chairman of Board of Supervisors in the eight counties in his district, calling their attention to the Community Action Program and offering his assistance to help get the programs started.

Meanwhile, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, of Ellenville, revealed that Ulster County is not taking advantage of Federal assistance available to it under the Community Action Program of the War on Poverty. He said that $273,000 has been set aside for the county, but so far there has been no effort to apply for any of the funds.

Resnick said that funds set aside for other counties in the 28th District for use in the community action programs total $111,000 for Columbia; $349,000 for Dutchess; $88,000 for Greene and $65,000 for Schoharie.

All told, the Congressman said, $886,000 has been made available to the five counties of the 28th Congressional District. Only Dutchess County, he said, has formed a Community Action Program and has applied for federal assistance. However, he noted, all of the funds set aside for Dutchess have not been applied for.

Kramer emphasized that the Office of Economic Opportunity "cannot force the program on any county or community," but his office is available at all times to assist in coordinating and preparing for Community Action programs. He noted that the local county or community must be the operational force behind such programs, with the assistance of his office.

The local field consultant said that Mayor John J. Schwenk has held meetings with groups to determine what steps should be taken to carry out Community Action Programs in this city. Kramer also noted that Kingston School District Consolidated has filed application for a Head Start Program, and similar applications have been filed by the Hudson County District in Columbia County and the Cobleskill School District in Schoharie County.

Dutchess County, Kramer said, has formed a Neighborhood Program under the Community Action Program and has applied for federal assistance. The field consultant also pointed out that Delaware County has held meetings relative to forming a CAP, and Delaware and Schoharie Counties have met with representatives of Otsego and Chenango Counties with a view of the possible formation of a four-county Community Action Program.

Sullivan County Board of Supervisors, Kramer said, has designated an agency to file application for a program. He said meetings have been held in this district between groups of the

Denounces New Regime In Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A five-man military-civilian ruling body installed in a surprise move by the Dominican's military junta has called on Col. Francisco Caamaño's leftist rebels to help restore peace and national unity.

Imbert President
Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera Friday night was named president of the new group, which called itself a "government of national reconstruction." Imbert described Caamaño as "a good personal friend" with whom he was ready to talk at any time.

Caamaño, on the other hand, claims that his forces speak for the Dominican Republic as its legitimate government. He has said that his rebels will accept no coalition government formula involving the military junta.

"We could not do this, not after defending the constitution at the cost of nearly a thousand lives," Caamaño said.

Other members of the new junta are Julio Posnigo, 61, a lawyer, book publisher and mayor of Santo Domingo in the regime of ex-President Juan Bosch; Carlos Grisolia Polanco, 51, a provincial governor under the deposed government of Donald Reid Cabral; Alejandro Zeller Coco, 41, an engineer; and Col. Pedro B. Benoit, air force officer and holdover from the three-man junta which resigned Friday.

Imbert, 44, did not explain why the military junta resigned, but said the new group was appointed and sworn in by Supreme Court President Julio Acuello.

KHS Choir Given Accolades for Inspiring Work

BY DOROTHY A. NAREL

Freeman Society Editor

One hundred thirty five high school students gave an inspiring concert Friday night in the auditorium of the Kingston High School.

Under the capable direction of Leonard Stine, director of music for the Kingston Schools (Consolidated), the KHS Concert Choir performed a very demanding program displaying at all times the intense training they have had during the year. Certainly a tribute to the music department and to the Kingston Board of Education which encourages this type of youth activity.

Fine Diction, Tone

The program opened with the Johannes Brahms movements from "A German Requiem." Appearing as guest organist for this half of the program was Gordon Bush, minister of music for the Old Dutch Church.

At the two pianos were Joseph Esposito and Alice Valentine. Mr. Esposito and Miss Valentine are KHS students and served as accompanists during the entire concert.

For the Brahms movement, "Blessed Are They That Mourn," the choir sang with intense feeling, fine diction and tone and Mr. Stine drew from them a marvelous blending of parts with particular emphasis on phrasing. The second movement, "Behold, All Flesh Is As The Grass," was equally well done with the choir reaching a greater dramatic level.

In the beautiful and flowing "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place," the voices wove the melodic line together with ease bringing the Brahms masterpiece to a brilliant conclusion. These three movements were further testimony to the high standards sought and consistently maintained by the KHS Concert Choir and its director.

Several choir members were singled out for performances during the second half. They included Lois Gerlach, Linda Kelse, Judith Enders and Cheryl Walker. The group sang the lovely Barcarolle from "Les Contes D'Hoffman," by Offenbach.

Mariouli Josefski, Coralie Orr, Robert Steeger and Gary Swanson sang "The Passage-Birds Farewell," by Eugen Hildach, an interesting and melodic composition which was very well performed.

"Chi Mi Frena" from Act II of Lucia Di Lammermoor by Donizetti was programmed to be sung by Priscilla Brown, Mary Prehn, Kathleen Rapp, Maureen Rapp, Floyd Light, Vincent Madaras, Robert Lindemann, Den-

Blame Poor Fair Crowds On Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — International exhibitors at the New York World's Fair are having difficulty projecting their image, and they blame it on a boost in fair admission prices.

"How can a foreign exhibitor project an image when there is only a handful of people to project it to?" asked Col. Nils Magnus von Arbin, commissioner general of the Swedish Pavilion.

Moses Stands Pat
"If the fair admission prices were lowered as we have asked," he said, "millions of more people would come to the fair and give us the chance to show them what we came here to show them."

Von Arbin is chairman of the International Exhibitors Association which earlier this week asked fair President Robert Moses to drop the admission prices from $2.50 to $2 for adults during the daytime and to $1 in the evening.

Moses said no. He raised the price in the hope of helping to make up the fair's $17 million deficit of last year.

The fair admission price, which Moses raised from last season's $2, has been blamed in some quarters for a drop in attendance under last year when the fair fell 13 million short of its expected total attendance of 40 million.

Rush to Beat Schedule
"If the admissions were lowered, millions of residents of the area would be able to come three and four and five times to see the fair," Von Arbin said.

"Instead, if they come at all now, they come once and they have to run from one pavilion to the other to get into as many as they can in one day."

"So, you find people running through a foreign pavilion so fast that the people we brought here from our homelands can't even halt them long enough to explain the exhibit."

Local Library Way Under Average

Per Capita Support Is Lowest of 714 in State

According to official New York State Department of Education statistics just released, the Kingston City Library ranks in the lowest quartile, in terms of per capita tax support, of all the 714 public libraries in the state.

Don Sager, library director, noted that the Kingston Library receives only $1.13 per capita, while the average library in New York State receives $3.45 per capita. He said that these recent State Department of Education statistics show how out of line this library's budget is.

Sager explained that he continues to receive complaints from students and their parents, area businessmen and professional people about the lack of current and vital books and the library's physical deterioration.

The board and the staff are aware that lack of business services and reference works limit the effectiveness of business and industries, particularly the small enterprises which are so vital to this city, Sager added.

He said that the library was well aware of the fact that since school libraries closed early in the afternoon, the Kingston Library was the only place students could work on their assignments using necessary reference materials.

The Board of Trustees of the library, Sager explained, has been doing an excellent job in trying to improve the library, but to date they have been frustrated in their attempts by what appears to be a lack of information on the part of some officials on the library's great need for an adequate budget.

Sager said that a number of editorialists, over the air and in the press, have noted the library's desperate condition, and some people seem to have gotten the mistaken impression that the library board is at fault.

He noted that the board had submitted a request, last October, to the Board of Education of this school district for some relief, and that several meetings have been held since then. Since this library, Sager explained, provides free service to all the students of this district, and over 5,000 students are registered at the library, the support

The Rev. Daniel Conklin is a priest who builds buildings to build souls. Almost single handed, Father Conklin designed, drew plans and built a huge recreation-gymnasium at St. Mary's, the senior seminary in Norwalk, Connecticut, for more than 5,000 Holy Ghost Fathers and Brothers. The 12,000 square feet of floor space is taken up with a gymnasium, stage, game room, music room, study and ham radio room, with which the Fathers maintain communications with their missionaries around the world. The faith of neighbors and friends helped Father Conklin build the estimated $300,000 complex at an actual cost of $42,000.

Father Conklin spent two years in the construction of the center. It will not only be used by the Fathers and seminarians, but is available for civic groups throughout the area to use and enjoy. Father Conklin, during his many years in missions in the Caribbean, has built other structures including a shrine. All of these are monuments to man's faith in God, The Master Builder.

CELEBRATES CENTENNIAL — Glenford Methodist Church, built in 1865 as "Greenwood Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church" and also known as "Beaverkill Church" will celebrate 100 years of service this month. Unlike many churches in the Esopus Valley at the time of the building of the Ashokan Reservoir, the Glenford Church was not destroyed but was moved to its present location in 1911. Marking the celebration will be an Old Time Service with costumes and worship service in the fashion of 100 years ago on Sunday, May 16th at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday May 19 will be Memory Night with historical skit, fellowship, exhibit of items of interest of the period, reminiscences of former pastors and old timers. Sunday, May 23, will climax the celebration with worship at 7:30 p. m. at which Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, resident bishop of the New York Area of the Methodist Church, will preach and bring greetings to the church from the Methodist denomination. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

Newburgh Rabbi To Discuss Moral Dilemma Sunday

RABBI NORMAN KAHAN

Special Meeting Slated Sunday at Lutheran Church

The Rev. Alfred Beck, president of the New York Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, will meet with members and council of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 355 Hasbrouck Avenue, Sunday 7:45 p. m. The Rev. Russell B. Greene who had been serving as pastor accepted a call to the Central Bridge Lutheran Church effective May 1. Substitute pastor for Sunday worship will be the Rev. Albert Shultis. The Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor of Atonement Lutheran Church, Saugerties, was named vice pastor of the church at the recent meeting of the Hudson District. The regular church council meeting will be held Monday 7:30 p. m.

This Sunday the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County will have as guest speaker Rabbi Norman Kahan of Temple Beth Jacob, Newburgh. Rabbi Kahan's subject will be Our Moral Dilemma. Rabbi Kahan's first visit to the fellowship was canceled because of bad weather in January.

Rabbi Kahan is a graduate of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. He attended the College for Jewish Studies and the Hebrew Theological College in Chicago and was ordained a rabbi at the Hebrew Union College, Jewish Institute of Religion, Cincinnati, Ohio. For three years he served as acting chaplain and educational consultant, in the U. S. Army Air Force during World War II. Rabbi Kahan also studied at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Israel.

He is spiritual leader of Temple Beth Jacob, Newburgh and is a lecturer for the Jewish Chautauqua Society, National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. He is a member of the Central Conference of American Rabbis; the New York Board of Rabbis and the Rockland-Orange County Board of Rabbis. Rabbi Kahan served on the executive board of the New York Association of Reform Rabbis and is president of the Newburgh Rotary Club. He has served as district chaplain of the American Legion, president of the Greater Newburgh Ministerial Association and on the executive boards of the Newburgh Community Chest and the Orange County Mental Health Association.

From 1955-1960 Rabbi Kahan was the Jewish chaplain of the United States Military Academy, West Point. The Rabbi has been cited by the Methodist and the Disciples of Christ Churches in Ohio and the Congregational Churches in Connecticut for his outstanding contribution to the Christian Youth Camp program. He is presently serving as the Jewish chaplain at Stewart Air Force Base. Rabbi Kahan is listed in Who's Who in the East.

The Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County is in Lake Katrine on Neighborhood Road and Lohmaier Lane. The programs start at 10:30 Sunday morning. The public may attend.

Painting Brings $67,200

LONDON (AP) — An unframed painting with a minimum price of $224 was sold at auction Thursday for $67,200.

Bonham's, the auctioneers, said the picture originally was entered for sale as the work of a little-known 18th century artist, but it actually was by George Stubbs, the great English painter of horses.

The painting is called "Hunter in a Landscape." The buyer was a dealer, Hugh Leggett. Bonham's refused to name the seller.

Presbyterians To Hold General Assembly in Ohio

Seventy-four New York churchmen representing eleven presbyteries will be among the 835 commissioners attending the 177th United Presbyterian General Assembly which meets May 20-26 in Columbus, Ohio.

The General Assembly, which meets annually, is the supreme governing body of the 3.3 million member denomination. Commissioners (voting delegates) are elected on the basis of one minister and one elder for every 8,500 communicant members of each of the church's 196 presbyteries.

Among important issues that the commissioners will help determine are a position paper on racism, a revised Statement of Faith and reports on ecumenical relations with the Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant churches.

The statement on racism, in essence, "repudiates as blasphemy and heresy racism and all its manifestations in the life of the church and its members."

A proposed Brief Contemporary Statement of Faith updates the denomination's theological beliefs in an attempt to be "the church reformed and ever being reformed," according to Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, the church's chief executive officer.

In the reports on ecumenical relations, a yearning for reunion with all Christians is stressed. Further steps toward reunion with Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant churches are recommended.

Also to be acted upon are recommendations dealing with such issues as poverty, nuclear war, narcotics addiction, population control, urban renewal. A proposal to further extend the Presbyterian ministry into urban and rural pockets of poverty also will be debated.

TO APPEAR HERE — The husband and wife team of Terry and Anne Martin will present services at the Union Center Community Church, Ulster Park, this Sunday. Through art, music and sermon they will conduct services at the Sunday school hour at 10 a. m., worship 11 a. m. and special programs 3 and 7:30 p. m. The Rev. C. Fred Fatum, pastor, extends an invitation to the public to attend.

Religious Programs

The Kingston Area Council of Churches provides a daily Thought for the Day at 6 a. m. and 11 p. m. on radio station WKNY, given during the coming week, Monday through Friday, by the Rev. Chester O. Newton of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church. The broadcast of the Sunday morning service at 11 a. m. tomorrow on WKNY will be from the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor.

through reading the Gideon placed Bible in the hotel room. They wrote expressing appreciation to the Gideons for placing the Bible in the hotel room, crediting it with saving their marriage.

Tonight a banquet will be held in the church parlors for the Gideons and the auxiliary as well as many of the area clergyman and friends of the Gideons.

The principal speaker for the evening will be Earle W. Popp, a member of the Buffalo Camp. On Sunday members of the Gideons from many parts of the state will be appearing in the pulpits of approximately 40 churches in the local area, telling these congregations of the work of the Association as well as some of the results.

This vast Scripture program is financed by freewill contributions received at church services where the work of the Association is presented, as well as contributions made by Gideons themselves.

Gideons Hold Rally Here; To Speak at Area Churches

This weekend, the Catskill Camp of Gideons International will be host camp to the New York State Area III Spring Rally which will be held at the Old Dutch Church, Wall and Fair Streets, Kingston.

The Gideons International is a Christian business and professional men's association numbering approximately 25,000 members in more than 66 countries around the world. The association is engaged in a program of placing the Holy Bible in such public institutions as hotels and hospitals, and of presenting the New Testament to such groups as military personnel, students from the fifth through the 12th grades inclusive, and to nurses.

Approximately 100 Gideons and Auxiliary members from many parts of the State will be in attendance during the rally. There are intensive periods of training from 9:30 a. m. to 3:45 p. m. today during which the members in attendance receive instruction in proper procedures for conducting the work of placing and distributing Bibles and Testaments.

Since the beginning of the Scripture distribution program of the Gideons International in the year 1908, more than 59,000,000 Bibles and New Testaments have been distributed. Last year the local Camp of Gideons distributed a total of 1,235 Bibles and New Testaments.

When asked why they engage in this work of distributing Bibles and New Testaments, Gideons invariably refer to the object of their association as stated in their Constitution: "The object of the Gideons is to win men and women for the Lord Jesus Christ."

Morning Meditations
Morning Meditations are conducted by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday over Radio Station WGHQ, at 6:25 a. m. The speaker for next week will be the Rev. George Osborne, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Kingston.

DR. NORMAN THOMAS

Merger Will Be Topic of Guest At Fair Street

Dr. Norman Thomas, pastor of the First Church of Albany, past president of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America, who is presently serving as co-chairman of the Presbyterian-Reformed merger Committee of 24, will be the guest speaker at the monthly covered-dish supper held in the Parish Room of the Fair Street Reformed Church Wednesday.

On June 28, 1962 a joint committee of 12 representatives from the Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern) and the Reformed Church in America held its first meeting to begin study and an implementation of ways leading to the merger of these two denominations. In leadership of the Reformed delegation, Dr. Thomas, has done much to foster an understanding between the two churches and is well informed on the difficulties and problems involved as well as the possibilities of merger.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church meeting in Montreat, N. C. Recently voted to proceed with a plan of merger. Dr. Thomas' timely topic will be Where Do We Go From Here?

The supper begins at 6:15 p. m. Those attending will bring covered dishes. Meat and dessert, coffee, milk and rolls will be provided by the church. Nursery care will be available for young children and there will be a program for the older school age young people. The evening's meeting is open to the community.

PREACHERS KIDS — The Kings Keynotes of Rockaway, N.J., a mixed quartet of five "preacher's kids" will present a sacred concert of Gospel music at the First Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf Street and Wiltwyck Avenue, 7:30 p. m. Friday, May 14. Their hour long concert features many of the best loved worship hymns of the church sung in their own uniquely beautiful style. Their pianist, Ruth Storms, studied at the New England Conservatory of Music and Gordon College. Sharon Moore, soprano and Joanne McPeck, alto, formerly sang with the Jubilaire Trio. Paul Moore, bass, has sung with and promoted quartet music all over the east. Don Storms, tenor, sang with the Gospel Messengers Quartet, was the director of a religious radio program, and is the group's minister. The Rev. Thomas H. Younce, pastor of the local church extends an invitation to the public to attend.

KINGSTON NEW YORK, MAY 8, 1965

MOTHER ON STAGE

It is time to pay our yearly respects to that most daily of jobs—motherhood. We are glad to join in the hosannas.

Mother is frequently pictured as long suffering and patient—a combination of nurse, cook, family chauffeur, seamstress and upstairs maid. All these she is. She is also an actress.

She laughs at her offspring's stale jokes, applauds their musical efforts, listens with apparent interest to rambling accounts of the latest surfing movie, and endures with a smile teen beat music played incessantly. She proudly displays the toddler's dandelion bouquet on the coffee table, learns the important batting averages to please her Little Leaguer, cheerfully allows papering the bedroom with pictures of the Beatles or their successors. She may even attempt the latest dances to remain "hep"—which is her word, not her children's.

Yes, Mother is an actress. Her audience is small but appreciative. Perhaps her greatest performance is the one she gives each year, on "her" day, when she sips warmed-over coffee enthusiastically, and smacks her lips over cold toast and soggy cereal lovingly prepared by her offspring. It takes a mother to read "I love you" on a piece of cold toast.

SMEAR STORY

Even in a year filled with anniversaries, there should be space to note still another—the 75th anniversary of something dear to the hearts of countless children and adults: peanut butter.

Though the Incas knew of it, the art of making it was lost until 1890, reports the National Geographic Society. In that year, a St. Louis doctor ground up some nuts, added salt and gave the paste to his patients as a high-protein, easily digested food.

The rest is history. Today, kids and other people consume more than 200,000 tons of peanut butter every year.

Outside the United States, however, it is still usually considered a health food, sold in drug rather than grocery stores.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture hopes to change that. Peanut butter introduced at a food fair in Europe in 1963 was a great hit. The recent development of a peanut butter and jelly mixture in a spray can may make the international situation even stickier—in a pleasant way.

SILVER POSES PROBLEMS

While inflation has cut the purchasing power of the dollar by more than half over the past quarter-century or so, paradoxically the value of money itself, at least in coins, has quintupled.

In 1933, the intrinsic value—the actual value of the metal, which has nothing to do with purchasing power—in 50 pennies was two cents. In 1964 it was 10 cents. The metal value of 10 nickels rose from one cent to five cents in the same period.

And where the metal in five dimes, two quarters or a half-dollar was worth nine cents in 1933, it is now worth 47 cents.

These last three coins, which contain about 90 per cent silver, tell a startling story of our time: Silver is simply becoming too valuable to be used as money.

Only a slight rise in the price of silver would make the intrinsic value of these coins exceed their face value—with a resultant hoarding that could raise hob with the economy.

United States consumption of silver for coins has increased drastically in recent years. Domestic industrial needs have grown less rapidly, but are going up. Add to this the industrial and coinage requirements of other nations.

Since silver is only a small by-product of copper, lead and zinc mining, and the amount that is mined every year is less than half the amount needed, the Free World will register a silver deficit of about 440 million ounces in 1965.

The 1.2-billion-ounce silver stock of the U.S. Treasury Department is the only supply that can make up this deficit. But at present rates of demand, this supply will be used up in three years.

NEW YORK (NEA)—Pity the poor spy in the nuclear age.

The arrest of two more Americans, Robert Johnson and James Mintkenbaugh, charged with spying for Russia and the latest trial in London of a prominent engineer are more evidence that the ancient art of espionage is not as romantic as it used to be.

In our age of scientific mysteries and push buttons even a beautiful Mata Hari would need, in addition to her art as belly dancer, some knowledge of engineering, physics or photography to be of any use as a spy.

Thus, at least one of the Americans, James Mintkenbaugh, is reported to have received espionage training in Moscow in photography, secret writing and microdots.

Russia's spy in London, Frank Clifton Broadbent, is like many of his British predecessors, a highly trained engineer. Until his arrest he was an expert on guided missiles in the British Ministry of Aviation.

Another military expert recently caught spying for Moscow was Sweden's Col. Stig Wannerstrom who had been supplying NATO secrets to Russia for 15 years. He served as an air attaché in the United States from 1952 to 1957.

Equally expert are the Russians spying for the West. There is indeed more truth than poetry in the statement by Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., that some of the most valuable operatives of the American Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) throughout the world "are actually high-ranking Communist party officials."

They are not too sold on communism and will work even for the United States "for a price," Young said.

Thus, Moscow's secret agent Yuri Nosenko, who is now believed to be in the United States, served as an adviser on nuclear weapons to the Soviet delegation at the Geneva disarmament conference.

Col. Oleg Penkovsky, another top Russian who spied for the West, was a competent scientist who belonged to the highest circles in Red society. He had been supplying the United States with military information for two years before he was tracked down by the Soviet secret police.

There is certainly little that is romantic about the modern spy. In the old days spying was as much an adventure as a lucrative business. But the spy in the nuclear age is primarily seduced by money. He is also afflicted with weak nerves. He confesses his crime the moment he is caught red-handed.

Col. Penkovsky confessed that he spied for the United States and Britain because he needed money. He went to his execution with head bowed. Wannerstrom admitted working for the Russians for a similar unromantic reason and is doomed to spend the rest of his life in a Swedish prison.

Or take the case of the venerable Professor Georgiev, Red Bulgaria's diplomat who confessed that he spied for the CIA in order to earn some extra change for his girl friend in France. Imagine Ian Fleming's daring James Bond pleading in court as Professor Georgiev did:

"I beg you to give me the heaviest penalty. I am guilty of the greatest crime a Communist can possibly commit."

In the romantic days spies never confessed. Like Mata Hari they faced the firing squad proudly with their lips sealed.

Only rarely does one find a spy these days who still operates in the grand tradition of Fouché, Napoleon's chief of intelligence. Fouché managed to take oaths of fidelity to seven different governments and live to tell the tale. He even survived Robespierre's revolutionary terror.

But the modern spy of our nuclear age, alas, if he does not confess, runs for his life at the first sign of danger, like Yuri Nosenko.

Quick Action Required To Save Abscessed Teeth

She looked sad. Her right cheek was red, swollen, and tender. Her right eye was partly closed. The side of her nose and her lips were swollen and red. The whole side of her face "beat like a pulse." Neck glands were not involved and strangely enough she was not in pain.

"About two months ago," Mrs. Josephine P. said, "this tooth on my upper right side became sensitive to hot and cold. Then the tooth seemed to get out of place and when I closed my mouth it kept getting in the way. I couldn't eat because it hurt so much when I bit on it. The gums around the tooth puffed up on and off, but two days ago it began to really swell. I was up the whole night before with a toothache, but when it began to swell it stopped hurting."

The upper right first premolar tooth (fourth from front) seems to be the one involved. Gum tissue around it was bluish red, spongy and swollen. It probably was filled with suppurative matter (pus). The tooth was mobile in all directions, and could even be moved up and down in its socket. The tooth behind it was loose too, but the eyetooth in front was firm and healthy.

X-rays disclosed a large irregular shadow that enveloped almost all of the roots of both teeth, first and second premolars.

Mrs. Josephine P. was suffering from a periodontal abscess. It probably began with gum infection and some bone loss around one tooth, developing into a gum pocket or pyorrhea pocket. Then more bone loss and deeper pocket until all the bone around the tooth was infected.

It's possible that if treatment had begun in the early stages, these teeth could have been saved by periodontal treatment: cleaning out the pockets and trimming away the diseased gums. If necessary, root canal therapy could have been done by removing diseased nerves, draining abscess, sterilizing root canals and filling them with gutta percha or silver points.

But it was too late for that. Mrs. P.'s teeth would have to be extracted. She had a slight fever and she "looked sick." Penicillin and warm mouth washes were prescribed. The extractions would have to wait until she was over this red hot infection.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

to 30 per cent, as the silver mining industry has urged, would only postpone the depletion of the Treasury stockpile. Worse, it might cause a price rise in silver—or speculation of one—and lead to even worse hoarding than exists today and even the melting down of coins.

The only apparent solution seems to be to mint dimes, quarters and halves out of some nonsilver alloy. But this raises the problem of how to make them work in the nation's millions of vending machines without making the coins too costly to produce or requiring an expensive changeover in vending machine mechanisms.

This is the silver cloud with black lining that presently hangs over the heads of the Treasury Department and Congress.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Military air research seems to be pointing the way to commercial freight planes so cheap to operate they'd give ships, railroads and trucks a fast run for a goodly chunk of longhaul shipping.

An engine now being developed promises to save 40 per cent in fuel costs on subsonic flights. Laminar flow control (in which the air moves through slots in the wings in a way that helps buoy the airplane aloft with less fuel consumption) promises to yield substantial increases in range.

New materials make possible reduced structural weight.

COMBINING THESE NEW CONCEPTS, military researchers foresee aircraft with 6,000 to 8,000-mile range and 100,000-pound payloads.

These subsonic transports could offer 500-mile-an-hour passenger service at one-third to one-half today's prices and freight haulage at comparable savings. Travelers in a hurry would use supersonic planes at premium fares.

Such economical - to - operate subsonic planes could revolutionize the distribution of goods in the United States, in international commerce and in much of the industrial world.

Efficiency would be increased with automated navigation, enabling "blind landings" in all weather conditions. Built-in ramps on the planes would permit trucks to provide roll-on, roll-off loading. Standard truck, train and ship containers would fit in their "holds."

Quick Quiz

Q—What organ of a bird produces the feathers?

A—The skin.

Q—Do the colors of the stars have any significance?

A—Colors are indications of star temperatures. As a rule, the blue and the white stars are the hottest.

Q—How did the raccoon get its name?

A—The word "raccoon" comes from the Indian name "arakun"—which means "he scratches with his hands."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

At this time when the Robert Fulton stamp is coming out items on this first steamboat trip is of historical interest. Donald C. Ringwald, editor of Steamboat Bill sent me the following. A letter reading: "Dear Sophie: I remember that in the past you have mentioned in your column that various dates are given for the departure from New York of the first steamboat to sail to Albany and you wondered which one was correct. I did an article dealing with the many inaccuracies last year, and have been meaning to send you the enclosed reprint of it. Incidentally, my book on the Hudson River Day Line is now being set in print, and should be released in the next few months."

I am mentioning all the material I have on the Robert Fulton steamboat because of the U. S. Fulton stamp, which I understand will be able to be had at our Main Post Office in Kingston as it comes out. Donald C. Ringwald sent me a reprint of his article, "First Steamboat to Albany" from the American Neptune Vol. XXIV, No. 3, 1964. It consists of 16 pages, from which I hope to quote from time to time, such as the following: "At the conclusion of the initial trip from New York to Albany in 1807 and return, Robert Fulton penned a letter to the New York American Citizen, which was carried in that newspaper on Aug. 22, 1807. In it he stated that he had left New York on Monday at one o'clock and arrived at Clermont, the seat of Chancellor Robert R. Livingston, at one o'clock Tuesday in twenty-four hours. He apparently assumed that nobody would imagine that he departed from New York at one in the morning and so did not identify these times as morning or afternoon."

Mr. Ringwald further wrote: "Thereafter, Fulton became more specific. He left the Chancellor's at nine Wednesday morning, arrived at Albany at five in the afternoon, left Albany Thursday at noon, reached the Chancellor's at six in the evening, started from there at seven and arrived at New York on Friday at four in the afternoon." The author adds in a note: "Fulton gave all of his departure and arrival times in round hours."

Mr. Ringwald brings out many interesting points, such as it was said "Katherine of Clermont" was named after Fulton's wife, Katherine Livingston, of Clermont Manor. Even though Fulton biographers have married Fulton to 1805, 1806, 1808, they agree that he married Harriet Livingston, who was not of "Clermont Manor." For sometime I have quoted from a brochure put out by the Hudson River Day Line, on Robert Fulton Day celebration on Aug. 17, 1907, which gives the date of Fulton's trip as Aug. 17, 1807, leaving New York at 1 p. m.

I have a little book I bought at a library fair, "Robert Fulton" by Alice Cary Sutfille, the great-granddaughter of Robert Fulton, author of "Robert Fulton and the Clermont" and "The Homestead of a Colonial Dame." It seems that all historians do not agree exactly the

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Washington Attorney and His Astronauts
Part II

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Soviet astronauts are promoted on the spot. When they land, they win increases in rank, pay and allowances. American astronauts win a medal and the personal congratulations of the President. Two of the Space Men — Deke Slayton and Alan Shepard — hopped into a plane because they were a few hours short of their monthly flight time. If they didn't make it up, they would lose about $110 each. The plane was hit by lightning.

They got down safely. They phoned their father-confessor Leo De Orsey, who ripped off a string of four-letter words. "America spends millions training you guys," he roared, "and then makes you take chances for a few lousy bucks." That's the question. A few lousy bucks.

The Congress, as well as the military hierarchy, has kept a suspicious eye on the Space Men. Each of the seven could have resigned after a successful orbit, and become rich by accepting offers. They have seven wives and 15 children. Sometimes it is costly to be a patriot.

"D", for Daddy De Orsey, worked himself toward exhaustion trying to insure their economic future without cheapening these men. It wasn't easy. When the seven were offered a chance to buy 21 per cent of a motel off Cape Kennedy, D said "Buy." They bought. It was a legitimate business deal, but the Congress, which voted itself pay increases and a $95,000,000 office building, was shocked.

De Orsey had to sell the 21 per cent quickly. Fortunately, he came out doubling the money. Nobody was hurt. The pooling of such extra — curricular income among the seven has kept them working as a team, without rancor, without envy, and they unified them as brothers.

One man, Deke Slayton, never got off the ground. He was found, belatedly, to have a heart murmur. Today, whatever the others earn, a share goes to him. Each astronaut is confident that his future is protected by all the others.

Alan Shepard was offered a free house in Maryland. D asked him to decline it. Later, all seven were offered free houses by generous Texans. There were no strings attached to the offer. De Orsey wanted his "kids" to accept, but the New York Times published a righteous indignation editorial and the gift was declined with thanks.

The puritanical Congressmen pondered how they could use the Space Men, while denying such use to anyone else. They finally came up with a scheme to ask NASA for astronauts to appear and speak in certain home districts. The seven are not permitted to decline. They say glumly: "It's my week in the barrel."

In 1963 Life Magazine and the Field Enterprises Educational Corp., headed by Marshall Field, signed a contract with the astronauts (then increased to 16) guaranteeing each $16,250 a year for four years, with an option for four more.

With it went a life insurance policy, at D's insistence, for $100,000 each. One man died recently. His widow will get $10,000 a year for the next ten years.

Three years ago, De Orsey advised his boys to build a 108-unit apartment house in Washington. It is on Wheeler Road and is the first to be desegregated. It cost them $20,000. They could sell it now for $250,000, but "D" ordered them to hang onto it.

Five of the astronauts own part of a Texas building and loan bank. Others have sound stocks and bonds. Shepard is in the oil and bank business. Grissom and Cooper built a ski lodge near Colorado Springs. De Orsey negotiated a contract with Royal Crown Cola for John Glenn when the colonel quit space in favor of economic orbiting.

He will earn $50,000 a year for five years, and has an option to buy 60,000 shares of cola stock at $18.91 per share. The stock is selling around $27. Glen could exercise his option, if he chose, and clear out with $430,000 now. But D said: "Stick with it, and work."

The original seven are now 28. There will be more. And the more frequent the space shots, the more unexciting they become. After the first moon shot, outer space may become relatively crowded with flying metal.

The novelty will be tarnished. No one will offer free houses or luscious business propositions, or astronaut pens and medals and kitchen utensils. Each orbit will be another day's drudgery. But that isn't true now.

De Orsey knew that none of it would last. He knew too that he wouldn't last. He worked on, driving himself from one heart attack to another. The week before he died, he sat in a beach cabana with his Helen, his daughters and son, and he kept a frowning glance on the grandchildren. A man has a built-in desire to protect his children and their children. Why shouldn't the astronauts have the same goal?

I said nothing. There was nothing to say. In six years, it cost Leo De Orsey $30,000 of his money to protect his Space Kids and help them protect their children. On his desk he has a plastic case with his payoff. The seven astronauts gave it to him after carrying it in orbit. It's a dated time . . .

Health Unit Will Form Action for Clean Air Group

Resolutions were unanimously approved at a luncheon and program session of the Capitol District Action for Clean Air Council at Albany, affirming its support of the efforts of state and local governmental agencies restricting open burning to eliminate air pollution.

The Council resolved that each of the member counties support constructive citizen action to affirmatively work with local governmental agencies and municipalities including urging necessary budget expenditures.

Dr. Herbert F. Schwartz, chairman of the Respiratory Diseases Committee of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, and E. Robert Johnson, executive director of the association, represented that group at the Albany session held Thursday.

Commenting on air pollution, Dr. Schwartz said, "Thinking in terms of Ulster County, all aspects of air pollution will be considered and an Action for Clean Air Group will be established by our County TB-RD Health Association. The association had deep concern with and commitment to the education of our public about respiratory diseases, and to help in the fight for their control. It is exceedingly important that we take the lead in an effort toward the possible problem of air pollution, which is recognized as a cause and as a constant detriment to these alarmingly increasing respiratory diseases."

Action Is Formulated
Johnson pointed out that local action for clean air organization structure is already being formulated and that education-information materials are now available concerning air pollution and related subjects at the TB Association headquarters, 121 Green Street, Kingston.

The Council session was composed of municipal officials, civic leaders, professional people, TB and Health Association executives and concerned citizens from Ulster, Greene, Albany, Rensselaer, Saratoga and Schenectady counties, and met under the chairmanship of Judge Matthew M. Dunne of Troy.

The featured discussion at the Albany session of Environmental Health with emphasis on air pollution was presented by Professor Edward J. Kilkawley of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Members of the Rensselaer County Department of Health provided effective slides illustrating a local successful sanitary land fill project.

Hazards of Pollution

The resolution noted that air pollution jeopardizes health, restricts community development, degrades residential and recreational areas, and is costly to both public and private enterprise and tarnishes all it touches. It also noted that all areas of the state need clean air "to protect the public health, to enhance the beauty of nature, to encourage community development, to improve recreational areas, to expand the local economy and to make the state a finer place to live, work and play."

Also noted in the resolution was the fact that a significant portion of present air pollution is caused by uncontrolled open burning at public and private disposal areas, backyard incinerators and by the burning of rubbish and leaves.

Per Capita ...

He added that the board had also requested an increase from the City of Kingston, and met with the Common Council's Finance Committee to discuss the matter. Sager said that unfortunately nothing materialized as yet from this request, despite the fact the library had a budget deficit.

During last year, and this year to an even greater extent, Sager said, the board has had to draw the funds necessary to maintain the library from the small endowment which it has. These funds, he explained, are rapidly being diminished. But, Sager noted, it is erroneous to believe the Library Board is not actively working to provide better service and an adequate library for this city.

While it is well and good, Sager explained, to note that Ellenville, Poughkeepsie, Middletown and Newburgh have better libraries than Kingston, it should be noted that Ellenville has a $34,000 budget, Poughkeepsie has a $186,000 budget, Newburgh has $100,000 and Middletown has $70,000 to work with each year. Kingston has only $33,000 a year and will continue to be inadequate for the people of this area until better tax support is provided.

Fire Causes $150,000 Cement Co. Damage

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The Ashton Ready-Mix Co., a concrete-mixing firm, and 15 to 18 of its trucks were destroyed in a fire Friday night.

Henry J. Sleight, owner of the plant, said the loss would exceed $150,000. He valued the rambling one-story building at $50,000 and said the concrete-mixing trucks ranged in value from $7,000 to $8,000.

Area Supervisors

state and federal office of the OEO to discuss possible programs.

Kramer explained that his district comprises the counties of Ulster, Dutchess, Columbia, Putnam, Greene, Delaware, Sullivan and Schoharie.

Congressman Resnick noted that the Community Action Program provides federal funds for local communities to mobilize their public and private resources to combat poverty. He said that if the money is not applied for by the end of the current fiscal year, June 30, the benefit of one full year of assistance will be lost to Ulster and other counties. Under federal law, he said, the government provides 90 per cent the first two years and 50 per cent the third year.

Has Much to Lose
"Thus," he said "Ulster County if it fails to utilize its first year allocation, would lose one full year of 90 per cent federal assistance."

Resnick stated that it is due to the lack of initiative on both the local and state levels that these funds might go to waste, even though they are badly needed locally.

"The local communities must show more effort to launch these vital anti-poverty programs than they have shown so far," the congressman said. He added, "The federal government is not going around to each community and handing money out. It is operating on the sound principle that if local needs exist, the funds will be applied for. There is no doubt the need does exist in our area, but without support from within the community, the necessary funds will not be granted."

Governor Rockefeller and his cousin, Alexander Aldrich, chairman of the Governor's committee on Economic Opportunity, both came under heavy fire from Resnick for "failing completely to carry out the responsibility placed in their trust by the Economic Opportunity."

Scorches Governor
The congressman said further, "The governor has the authority and the responsibility under the law to help develop local interest and initiative in the vital poverty program. He is the one in the state government responsible for getting this program off the ground in New York. He has failed miserably. He appointed a staff to implement the poverty program in the state after getting $242,932 in the form of a Federal Technical Assistance Grant. The money was to be used in helping communities get started on action programs. But what developed in our area? Nothing! I have said before that this situation was developing. Now these latest figures bear me out."

Resnick said that the War on Poverty will, through training and education, help lower the tremendous welfare burden on the people of New York. He pointed out that it is recommended that Community Action Programs be established, where possible, on a county-wide basis so that broad-based assault on poverty can be launched.

The congressman urged everyone to attend county, city, town and village board meetings, and urge local officials to "start the ball rolling."

"Local civic leaders in every county should take the initiative in organizing a Community Action Program."

uncover new tragedy. One dead child, Gregory Magsam, 4, was found in the cellar of his wrecked home at Mounds View Friday.

Another 4-year-old, Lori Ann Abraham, died hours after her mother succumbed during the storm. The child's month-old sister is missing and presumed dead.

$10 Million Damages
The damage, estimated by insurance spokesmen at upwards of $10 million, prompted President Johnson to extend wind disaster status—and the hope of federal aid for reconstruction—to the region.

Picking up the splintered wood and shattered dreams was a heart-breaking business for many.

Fearful Prisoner of Cong

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A merchant Marine officer from California who went back into the jungle two weeks ago to try to find his missing pilot brother is now apparently a prisoner of the Viet Cong.

A 21-year-old Vietnamese girl student who went along with him is also believed in Communist hands.

Donald Dawson, 25-year-old civilian maritime officer of Costa Mesa, Calif., came to South Viet Nam last January after learning that his brother, U.S. Army Lt. Daniel L. Dawson, 27, pilot of a spotter plane went down over the jungle two months earlier and had not been heard from.

even though the jury went home without a verdict in Wilkins' trial, it may serve as a deterrent to Klan members bent on racial violence.

"They know now that there was one FBI undercover agent in their ranks," the attorney general continued, "and there may be others. They're really going to have to reconnoiter and take inventory. They won't know who might be an FBI informer and who isn't."

He referred to the disclosure that the state's key witness against the chain-smoking Wilkins was an admitted FBI plant inside the Klan.

The witness, Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., identified Wilkins as the one whose bullets killed the Detroit mother of five children as she shuttled civil rights marchers back to Selma the night of March 25 following the "freedom march" to Montgomery. She had taken part in the march herself.

Rowe said he, Wilkins, Thomas and Eaton were in the car from which the volley of pistol shots was fired almost at point-blank range. But although he, too, had a gun, he said he didn't use it.

Lee, Cheatham for Acquittal
The two jurors who insisted on acquittal were Dan Lee, a Fort Deposit mechanic, and Billy R. Cheatham, office manager for a large lumber fabricator. Cheatham also lives at Fort Deposit.

Both men disavowed any affiliation with the Klan, but said they had joined the pro-segregation White Citizens Council. Cheatham said he is still a member; Lee, an ex-member.

"I didn't accept his (Rowe's) testimony," explained Cheatham, "not when he swore before God and broke his oath." He referred to the KKK oath of secrecy administered to the FBI informer when he became a member of the hooded order.

Lee agreed with Cheatham. He said "me and him pretty well are on the same side."

Plea Antagonized Jury
A strong plea for white supremacy by Klan attorney Matt H. Murphy Jr. of Birmingham antagonized some on the jury, said Edmund Sallee, a farmer from nearby Letohatchie and one of those who voted for conviction.

"I think a great many of us were insulted," Sallee commented. "He must have thought we were ignorant to be taken in by that kind of thing."

Murphy blamed himself for the failure to win an acquittal, and predicted his client would be found innocent when tried again.

"I tried to win this one on the state's evidence and on cross-examination alone," said the defense lawyer, himself a Klansman. "The next time I'll put on some testimony and blow this case out of the water."

Jennie Boll, surveying pulverized homes at Island Park along Lake Minnetonka. Her mother—grandma—Mrs. John Iversen, 80, survived the storm, but died of a heart attack immediately afterward.

A neighbor, Roger Latterle, emerged from his torn home with muddy shoes. "My family's all right, and I say to hell with everything else," he said.

Many residents strode about with cameras, taking pictures to substantiate insurance claims.

The state insurance department established three information centers and companies sent 40 claims agents into hard-hit Friday alone.

Domination ...

out participation of the United States.

In Washington, President Johnson, in an obvious reference to De Gaulle's proposals, assailed "the kind of nationalism which would ... destroy the dream of European unity and Atlantic partnership."

He said those who gave their lives in World War II did not die in vain. The "shining achievement" over the past two decades includes the democratic revival of defeated nations, growing European unity and U.S.-European partnership, he added.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in chief of Allied forces in World War II, said in New York the Communists dominated states of Europe are "a sad monument to the victory we thought we had won 20 years ago."

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson said in an anniversary statement "the reunification of Germany in peace and freedom, through the principle of self-determination, remains the fundamental objective of British policy."

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and President Heinrich Lübke placed a wreath of a monument to the German war dead in Bonn.

Other Rites Sunday
Erhard said the German people have renounced the use of force "but we are not ready to be patient to an injustice and to remain silent when brute force seeks to withhold from us the naturally and solemnly proclaimed right of self-determination."

The Bonn government regards itself as the only legal representative of all Germans, including those in East Germany. Thousands of Parisians took part Friday night in the first of the public observances this weekend to mark the anniversary.

Norway will observe two minutes of silence at noon to commemorate its liberation from Nazi occupation.

Military parades and other observances will be held Sunday in Moscow and Prague.

6 Persons Hurt

the late model vehicle he was driving.

Constable Doyle said the car was driving apparently west out of control and overturned, pinning the driver inside. The investigation was being continued today.

In an earlier accident, two teenagers were hospitalized and two others also suffered injuries in a one-car accident about 12:45 a. m. at Hasbrouck and Delaware avenues.

Taken by Doctors ambulance to Benedictine Hospital were Stanley A. Terwilliger, 18, of 179 Tremper Avenue, the driver, who suffered face injuries; Michael Andrews, 16, of 37 Wall Street, a passenger, nose and mouth injured; Diane Lohman, 17, of Box 230A, Stone Ridge, another passenger, jaw injuries; and Charles Naccarato, 15, of 73 First Avenue, a third passenger, head and leg injuries. Doctors administered oxygen to Michael at the scene and en route to the hospital. The others were released after treatment.

Police said that Terwilliger said he was driving south on Hasbrouck and making a left turn onto Delaware when he was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, causing him to strike a utility pole at the intersection. Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. was notified. Patrolmen George Barringer and Kenneth Radel investigated.

In another mishap, John Provenzano, 16, of 24 Golf Terrace, suffered left arm and head injuries in an accident about 8:40 Friday night at the Broadway underpass. He was treated at Kingston Hospital and released.

According to witnesses, the youth had spoken to a driver about directions and hopped on the back of the driver's vehicle where he jumped off and struck his head on the pavement.

The lumber and other wood products used in home building cost only 19c of every dollar paid for a house, according to the U. S. Labor Department.

3 Persons Hurt In Rt. 32 Crash

Three New York City persons were injured in a one-car accident about 12:15 a. m. today on Route 32 south of Heart's Content Road in the Town of Catskill.

State Police at Leeds substation said all three were probably saved from further injury because they were wearing seat belts. The car they were in was demolished.

Taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, where they were released after treatment, were Emmanuel T. Bohm, 36, who suffered abrasions of the left elbow and knee; his wife, Maria, 54, mouth injuries and upper lip cuts, and Jarmila Ulitrova, 60, bump on the back of the head.

Troopers said that Bohm was driving north on Rt. 32 when his car left the road, struck guard rails, went into a ditch, overturned, and came to a rest on its roof on the highway.

Troopers E. E. La Plante and L. J. Little investigated. In another mishap, traffic was tied up about three hours Friday night after a pileup involving three trucks on the Thruway near Newburgh. All the drivers were from Brooklyn.

State Police at the Newburgh Thruway substation said that Robert J. Reilly, 34, of 388 North Street, Brooklyn, was driving a federal government 2½-ton truck on the Thruway when he pulled out from one lane to the other and was in collision with a truck driven by Walter Yadiatsky, 38, of 231 Stillman Avenue, Brooklyn.

The third truck involved was driven by Joseph J. Villano, 23, also of Brooklyn. No one was reported injured but troopers said that Reilly was summoned for a traffic violation.

They said that traffic had to be rerouted after diesel fuel and gasoline spilled across the super-highway. The accident happened about 10:30 p. m.

In an earlier accident about 9:40 p. m. on the Thruway near Newburgh, Frederick Storms, 28, of 2 Beech Street, White Plains, was injured when his car went out of control and overturned.

Troopers at the Thruway substation, Newburgh, said that Storms was passing a car and returned to the inside lane when his vehicle went out of control, went into an embankment and overturned, pinning the driver inside. Storms was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, where he was treated for a cerebral concussion and possible back and chest injuries.

Troopers B. B. Matthews and C. E. Stuart investigated.

KHS Choir Given

his Seales, Paul Huth, Alan Pedersen, Alan Finger and Brooke Jenkins. Robert Steeger and Gary Swanson, who sang with the previous group, also stepped in to sing this selection. The number was accorded a warm audience reception.

Muscle Very Advanced
The choir concluded its formal program with the bright, dancing "Roumanian Rhapsody" by Georges Enesco. Difficult enough for instrumentalists the music is very advanced for a high school group but was performed extremely well none the less.

For their encores, the KHS Concert Choir sang the popular "Dry Bones," complete with sound effects, and the devotional "May the Lord Bless You and Keep You."

One humorous note was injected in the outset of the concert—someone forgot to unlock the two pianos! As Mr. Stine explained to the audience, "... please excuse the slight delay. We find that quite unexpectedly the pianos are locked." The delay was taken in mirthful stride by both the choir and the audience.

Repeat Performance
The concert will be repeated tonight at 8:15 p. m. in the KHS auditorium and it is highly recommended. With all the negative news one hears about youth these days, it is a delight and a comfort to witness work done on the positive side—and incidentally by the greater majority.

Johnson ...

commend measures to Congress to increase trade between Eastern Europe and the United States.

Must End Shame
Second, the President listed working for the reunification of Germany. "The shame of the Eastern zone must be ended," he said. "It serves the real interest of none."

Third, he called for a new effort to help the underdeveloped nations. "We are the rich nations in a world of misery," Johnson said, adding this warning: "If we fail to help now, then some day the tides of unrest will be surging along our own coasts. In fact, they already are there."

Fifth, the President said: "We must work out more effective forms of common defense. All Atlantic nations who wish to do so have a right to share in collective nuclear defense while halting the spread of nuclear weapons." He added that strong U. S. forces, backed by strong nuclear power, will remain in Europe as long as they are needed and wanted.

Last he spoke of working toward agreement with the Soviet Union.

Nancy Lee Dean, Arthur M. Copeland Are Betrothed; June Wedding Planned

Dr. and Mrs. William Dean of 45 West Chestnut Street, have announced the engagement of their daughter Nancy Lee, to Arthur M. Copeland, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Copeland of Rye.

Miss Dean, a graduate of Kingston High School, received her BS degree from Boston University last June. She is now on the teaching staff of an elementary school in Quincy, Mass. Mr. Copeland, a graduate of Rye High School, attended Colgate University, and will be graduated this June from the Massachusetts College of Optometry. He will receive his doctorate degree in October.

A June 20 wedding is planned.

Girl Scout Activities

Junior Scout Hike

Saturday, 16 girls of Junior Scout Troop 35, sponsored by Lake Katrine School, participated in a hike around the Woodstock area. The scouts met at the home of Mrs. John Murdoch, troop committeeman, on Wichtree Road, and hiked from there to Woodstock.

They toured the town and visited the library, various antique shops, and met the celebrated artist, John McClelland in his art shop. The candle factory was another interesting place the girls visited. They hiked back to the starting point and prepared "souvenirs" over the fireplace.

This hike enabled the scouts to complete the five mile hike requirement of the Foot Traveler badge, and other credits toward the Gypsy and Rambler badge of the Junior Girl Scout program. Mrs. Olav L. Sande is leader of Troop 35, and Mrs. John Murdoch also accompanied the girls on the hike.

Scouting Flyer

The Kingston Neighborhood service team informs parents of girls in the first grade who will be eligible to join the Brownie Girl Scout program in September, that a flyer will soon be sent home by cooperating school officials. This flyer will contain information concerning the program being offered to the community by the local Girl Scout organization. Parents will fill out the forms and return them to the school promptly.

Other people who are interested in offering their services to the Girl Scout program may obtain information by sending a post card to the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts Inc., 1 Van Buren Street, Kingston, giving their name and address and requesting more information.

Memorial Day Parade

The Girl Scouts of the Kingston District have been invited to participate in the Memorial Day Parade. Leaders who expect to participate will notify Mrs. Horace L. Brown on or before May 20, as to the number of girls and leaders expected to participate.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts Inc., is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

EVENING GOWNS NOT CORRECT AT AFTERNOON BACCALAUREATE

Q: I am the president of the senior graduating class. Our baccalaureate service will be held at four o'clock on a Sunday afternoon the first week in June. The girls from the junior class will act as ushers. They would like to wear formal evening gowns. Will you please tell me if this will be in good taste?

A: I'm sorry, but formal evening dresses would not be at all proper.

A Broken Engagement

Q: Will you please settle a dispute my girl friend and I are having over her broken engagement? She feels that since her fiancé broke their engagement, she is entitled to retain the ring. I told her the proper thing to do is to return it regardless of who broke the engagement. This resulted in a quarrel. However, she later agreed to return it if you so advised.

A: You are entirely right. In fact, it is hard to understand why she would want to keep a ring which would only serve to remind her of an unhappy incident in her life.

Very Late Thank-You Notes

Q: I was married six months ago and received many beautiful wedding presents. I'm ashamed to say that I never sent thank-you notes for any of them. What should I do now?

A: Sit right down and start writing them. Begin each note with an apology for your long delay in thanking the giver for the lovely (whatever it was) he or she sent you.

Speakers at DAR Convention Denounce UN And Brand Marchers 'Bums': Report Given

Wiltwyck Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held its May 3 meeting Monday evening at the Chapter House, with regent Mrs. R. R. Empringham presiding.

The following slate of officers for 1965-66 was elected unanimously: Regent, Mrs. R. R. Empringham; first vice regent, Mrs. Floyd N. Elsworth; second vice regent, Mrs. S. James Matthews; chaplain, Miss Hazel S. Bloom; assistant chaplain, Mrs. Claude G. Palen; recording secretary, Miss Louise R. Luther; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Cloyd L. Elias; treasurer, Mrs. Otto A. Tunka; registrar, Miss Virginia M. Curtis; historian, Mrs. Adam H. Porter; Librarian, Mrs. Conrad J. Gross; Members Executive Board, Miss Mary Terwilliger, Mrs. George S. Dart.

Elected to attend the New York State Conference October 6-18 at the Hotel Baltimore, New York City were Mrs. R. R. Empringham, regent; Mrs. Adam H. Porter, delegate; alternates: the Meses, William Ochs, W. Dale Swartzmiller, Hollis M. Burhans, Raymond Gary Smith.

Two new members were initiated by the regent: Mrs. Harold E. Rippet of Ellenville and Mrs. Raymond G. Simels of the Bronx.

Reports of the Continental Congress recently held in Washington, D. C. were given by Mrs. Empringham, regent; Mrs. Gertrude Kerth, alternate and Mrs. Adam H. Porter, delegate. Theme of the Congress and for 1964-65 was, "American Values—Past and Present." Mentioned among the National Society's accomplishments were the publishing of the Diamond Jubilee Book. In Washington, D. C. the presentation of the 17 State Flags to Dahlgren Hall, Annapolis Naval Academy replacing those previously given, and establishment of the American Heritage Committee.

A display by this committee won a $1250 prize at the Wisconsin State Fair for the best cultural exhibit.

Applications for membership was 50,972 with membership: 186,372. Overseas chapters are Cuba, England, France and Mexico.

Flag of the United States of America, 46,000 were presented and a Braille Flag made for students who can now "see" the flag.

$171,545.00 was contributed to DAR approved schools, $50,000.00 to the American Indians Committee, Student Loan and Scholarship donated 23 nursing scholarships plus loan of $177,933 at low interest to college juniors and seniors. The Good Citizen Award was won by Teri Lou Howden sponsored by Lin Lou Chapter, San Diego, Cal.; sterling silver Paul Revere Bowl and $1,000.00 scholarship to college of her choice, Mrs. Edward J. Fitzgerald of Wiltwyck Chapter is a Past Regent of Linaires Chapter.

Junior Miss DAR of 1965 was Mary Belle Purvis of Tennessee, Regent of her chapter and holds a BA and MA in chemistry.

First prize for the entire country in DAR Manuals for Citizenship was won by New York State, Mrs. Adam H. Porter of Wiltwyck Chapter State Chairman.

In conservation, efforts are being made to save the California redwood groves in imminent danger of destruction to build a Free-Way. North Carolina led in tree-planting: 394,248, and the students of Crossnore a DAR school planted 5,000 white pines. They will complete 200 acres of these.

The Bacone College Choir on a 12 state tour, 38 members, 18 tribes represented, sang Battle Hymn of the Republic, 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer with the addition of sign language. These first Americans have never paraded with placards nor made public demands! Speaking on National Defense Night was the Chairman Mrs. Henry S. Jones. She mentioned "the back-breaking taxes being vested upon our children to care for the aged. That a handful of atheists have prevented simple prayers in our schools, that disarmament is no cure for war, any more than disarming the police force would prevent crime. That the United Nations is an abdication of American sovereignty, the Constitution was designed to preserve our liberty and the price of liberty is eternal vigilance."

Congressman John Dowdy of Texas told the DAR that their arrival in Washington was like a breath of fresh air compared to the "rabble-rousers, beatniks and bums who have so recently been descending upon us."

An estimated 12,000 demonstrated with placards in front of the White House Easter, weekend and the Congressman deplored the schools they came from as "failing in their duty to teach cleanliness, manners, morals, and decency."

Mrs. Mary G. Roebeling, DAR banker and only woman member of the New York Stock Exchange named the National Society as America's most honored organization, distinguished by its intelligence and able women. Her subject was "Free Enterprise."

She stated that Lenin said, "Free enterprise must be destroyed. It will be an inside job." Yet this, with the fact that sounding in Cuba, South-east Asia, Egypt and Russia, "Uncle Sam go to hell," much of the American public remains complacent. Profits are the lifeblood of free enterprise and reasonable compensation must be made for the use of people's money she said. Also rights of individuals to make their own decisions and to own property, for upon such principles is the foundation that America rests. Today the Soviet Union is profit-minded, making things as cheaply as possible, selling them high as possible, and investing the returns in State-owned facilities. Jefferson, Hamilton, Franklin and Washington counseled thrift and enterprise. This economic battle must be fought and won. Give light and people will find their own way, the speaker stated.

Vice-Admiral John S. McCain Jr., U. S. Navy and Commander Amphibious Force, Atlantic Fleet spoke on, "Show-Down at Sea," saying that important as space is, we must still live on

This globe, and three quarters of the earth's surface is water. Stressed the sea's increasing influence in our lives for raw materials, that the sea - floor contains zinc, iron, uranium. That Soviet Russia has ships throughout the world doing oceanography, fishing trawlers invading every major fishing area, 400 merchant ships, 9 to 13 thousand submarines traveling the seelanes while ours is in a serious state and steadily declining. "The pressure against us in Southeast Asia is continuous and unrelenting but we are able to out-flank them from the sea with cruisers, destroyers, polaris submarines, carriers, or Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps." He concluded with, "The United States must control the sea to control peace."

Elected for 1965 to 1968 was New York State's own Mrs. William H. Sullivan Jr., of Scarsdale as president general and Mrs. Lyle J. Howland of Rome for a vice president general, both well known to members of Wiltwyck Chapter.

The meeting terminated with recitation of the American's Creed.

Three-way Race

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A three-way race has developed for Democratic endorsement of a candidate for city mayor.

Two former mayors, Steven Pankow and Frank Sedita, announced Friday they would seek the endorsement. A week ago, James L. Kane, a labor leader, said he would ask Democrats to support him.

Incumbent Mayor Chester Kowal, a Republican who defeated Sedita in 1961, has not announced his intentions for this fall.

Chamber Member Breakfast Set Tuesday Morning

Richard M. Kalish, Urban Renewal Committee chairman, for the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, will preside at the membership breakfast meeting, Tuesday, May 11 at 7:45 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel. Reservations for the breakfast should be made not later than Monday morning by calling the Chamber of Commerce office.

Eric Hemphill, executive director of Kingston's Urban Renewal Agency, will head the panel of speakers on the status of this major program in the city.

This informal meeting has been arranged jointly by the special breakfast and Urban Renewal Committees of the Chamber of Commerce. It is one of the series to provide members and their guests with accurate and up-to-date information on the status of major projects of public concern. The Congressional Action Committee hopes to be able to make arrangements with Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick to address another breakfast meeting in the near future.

Greenwich Boy Is Top-Ranked FFA

WALTON, N. Y. (AP)—David J. Mosher, 17, was named State Star Farmer of 1965 today at the 40th annual New York State Future Farmers of America convention.

David, a junior in Greenwich Central School, is the son of Mrs. John Mosher of Greenwich.

Besides receiving the $200 that goes with the coveted Star Farmer award, David collected $100 as the top ranked FFA dairy farmer.

Joseph Perrigo of Weare, N. H., vice president of the national FFA, presented the awards to David and $100 each to five other class winners.

They were:

- Poultry farming, Alan Buhr, 18, senior in the Royalton Hartland Central School, Middleport, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Buhr of Gasport.

Con-Ed Hearing Off Until Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Power Commission hearing on transmission lines and fish protection in the Hudson Highlands of New York has taken a long weekend recess—until 2 p. m. Tuesday.

But the problems involved in the controversial hydroelectric project near Cornwall, N. Y., will be aired again before the recess ends.

The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee has scheduled a hearing Monday and Tuesday on the fish protective devices planned by the Consolidated Edison Co. for its proposed Hudson River plant.

The utility has been licensed to build the $160-million hydroelectric plant at Storm King Mountain, but the power commission called for more hearings on the fish protective devices and the route to be followed by overhead transmission lines to New York City.

Department witnesses said Friday that the fish protection planned by the firm is not adequate.

Matteawan Inmate To Return For Trial

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A 38-year-old man has been declared sane and capable of standing trial with a young woman on charges of first-degree murder. They are accused of the tavern holdup-shooting of a deaf man.

Judge Charles J. Caughan of Erie County Court directed Friday that Robert L. Hayes be returned to Buffalo from Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Caughan ordered two weeks ago that Carla Leach, 21, be returned from Matteawan to stand trial.

Police said Miss Leach shot John Johnkins, 35, during a January, 1964, tavern holdup. Police said Johnkins was shot when he failed to lie on the floor as directed. Hayes was outside the tavern as a lookout during the holdup, witnesses told police.

Candor Man Dies

ENDICOTT, N. Y. (AP)—Oliver Signs, 40, of Candor, died in Ideal Hospital here Friday shortly after an automobile and his small truck collided on Route 96, one mile north of Oswego.

Signs was thrown out of the truck and pinned between the two vehicles.

Super Market Caters to Family Needs

Farber's Super Market is a food store that caters to all the family's needs. Although it is in the midst of the downtown urban renewal project, it is a modern up-to-date market. Mr. Farber personally supervises the meat department, where everything is cut fresh for the customer. The finest quality meats are sold and one can find many of the delicacies like Mom used to cook. Many a recipe has been given to those who want to cook these delicious foods. Mr. Farber opened the meat market in 1941 after the death of his father. Following service in the army during the second world war he included groceries in the market. In 1953, he enlarged his store to its present size, and since then has been adding new modern equipment.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Farber told John Davis that they will cheerfully help you plan your meals and will, if you wish, advise you on the better buys. If you don't like to or can't do your own shopping they will assemble your order and send it with their own employee and delivery truck.

Farber's Super Market advertises in the Kingston Daily Freeman every Thursday.

First To Show Television in '39

It all started back in 1935, when Michael and Louis Arace went into business under the name of Arace Brothers. They had a barber shop and decided to add a showcase carrying musical supplies. Since they were well known barbers, their business grew until they had to add another showcase along with a wall display case. Finally it was necessary for them to move to a larger store at 562 Broadway. When this took place they added a complete selection of records, radios and phonographs. Louis Arace played the sax and clarinet in leading local orchestras and bands at that time and also taught music. Lou told Don Burger that they were the first dealer in Kingston to show television way back in 1939. He served three years in the Army Air Corps. Upon his return, the Broadway Underpass was in progress making it necessary for them to move to another location. At this time, Lou and Mike dissolved partnership. Mike went into the wholesale business under the name of Arace Electronics and Lou remained in the retail business. After the completion of the Broadway Underpass, Lou returned to his former location, 562 Broadway and built the new building which he now occupies.

Potter Bros. Re-Organizes and Expands

In a move to better serve present day needs of his customers, Bud Potter, Pres. of Potter Bros. Sporting Goods, Inc., is completely revamping his store format. Now in their 20th year in business, he recently discontinued the fishing tackle, re-loading and dog supplies departments to make room for the increased demand of his other departments. In a conversation with Bob Sachloff, he explained that Potter Bros. will now specialize and concentrate on golf, tennis, archery, hunting, skiing and athletic supplies in their respective seasons. Current renovations and remodeling of the store at 294 Fair Street will give Potter Bros. a new and more functional appearance. Mr. Potter, in keeping abreast with the growing Hudson Valley sport demands, has recently opened another store at 26 New Market Street in Poughkeepsie. Danny Potter, Bud's son, ably assists his father in the business.

Freeman Ad Saves House From Destruction

In 1922 Mail Carrier Charles Johnston raised flowers for wholesalers in his spare time on an Albany Avenue farm, just north of what is now the Ulster Plaza. He imparted knowledge and experience to son, John, who enlarged the business as a full time retail venture in 1957. Last year John had a huge overstock of petunia seeds. He planted ALL of them. Soon they overflowed the greenhouses, and threatened to engulf his home. Through a Freeman ad he appealed to people to buy the things before his wife sued for divorce. The ad worked, and the Johnston house and homelife were saved. John told Sherwood Lasher that he now confines most plants to the new moulded peatmoss pots, which disintegrate and become part of the soil when planted in the buyer's garden. Thus, better flowers . . . and no danger of them running rampant.

Britts Community Room Popular

Something new was added — a year ago! Yes, when Britts Department Store opened in the Kingston Shopping Plaza, it introduced to Kingston the idea of the Community Room. This was the center for community entertainment and culture — a room in which organizations could hold meetings and fund-raising activities such as fashion shows, food sales, and concerts. Paul J. Sullivan, manager of Britts, reported to Henry Eighmey that the programs presented in the Community Room have become very popular and well-attended, "and the Community Room has become an accepted part of the local scene."

A Reason for Success

Elisa Ringwood, manager of Kingston Appliance, located on Albany Avenue at Groff Street, thinks she has found the secret to selling. Her prescription: take one-part interest, mix with one-part sincerity and add a dash of friendship and blend well with such top names as GE, Westinghouse, Kelvinator, and the rest is easy. Elisa has made many, many friends during her working hours and her social calendar is one that would keep a full-time envoy hopping. "She's one of the friendliest accounts I call on" Bob Bain mentioned the other day.

Home Improvement Sales Potential

Bureau of Advertising Presentation Cites Retail Selling Opportunities —

The home improvement market this year has a retail sales potential of more than $13 billion, according to a new presentation published by the Bureau of Advertising, ANPA. The newspaper-format presentation is designed to help retailers in this category make the most of their selling opportunities. Copies are available to merchants through The Kingston Daily Freeman, a member of the Bureau.

The presentation sets the average yearly home improvement expenditure in this country at $28 per family. "Volume should reach $13 billion this year." "With an annual growth of 4-5% yearly over the next decade, annual home improvement business should total $18 billion annually by 1975 . . . There's a tremendous need for dealers coast-to-coast to advertise and promote the idea of better living through home improvement."

One article in the presentation points to a record year ahead in the garden supply market. Latest estimates from Hardware Retailer magazine set the nation's total annual expenditure for lawn and garden merchandise at more than $3 billion. This includes an estimated $1.5 billion spent each year for general supplies, tools, and power equipment, and another $1.0 billion for nursery "green goods."

"This presentation brings the dimensions and potential of home improvement market into a realistic perspective," says Mark R. Arnold, vice-president of the Bureau's Retail and Classified Department. "By multiplying $28 by the number of families in this market, a retailer can estimate the home improvement sales potential in a market of his size. Indications are that merchants will have to promote harder than ever to increase or even maintain their current share of the business. Added pressure from new competition will place a premium on effective, consistent advertising."

The presentation reports examples of successful promotions from around the country. In addition, a case history of the value of classified advertising to building supply firms is included.

Other articles in the presentation discuss the do-it-yourself customer, the importance of women in initiating home improvement projects, the latest statistical data on newspaper readership and coverage, and a tested four-step program for planning retail promotions.

Questions and Answers on Advertising

Q—I have heard that government agencies compel some advertisers to change their advertising copy, on the grounds that it is false or misleading. Isn't this an indictment of advertising?

A—No, only an indictment of that particular advertisement or campaign. In any economy, we will find people who cheat. The public is protected in this manner. A government agency itself may have its own reason for looking into advertising claims. Also, any manufacturing company may ask a government body to look into the advertising claims of its competitors. Thus, these two forces are at work to keep an eye on consumer interests.

Dear Abby . . .

So ???

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman. He is young, handsome, warm-hearted and understanding. He is constantly being called upon to help poor frustrated women work out marital problems.

My problem: How do I handle love-starved women who transfer their affections to my husband? Women who feel that he can fill the need in their lives for affection and understanding. He never visits women in their homes unless their husbands are present. But some women stop him on the street, come to his office and even to his home. Everywhere I go, I hear how "lucky" I am to be married to such a wonderful man. What can I do?

PARSON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Are you bragging or complaining? I once knew a clergyman who was all the things your husband was. Many women attempted to transfer their affections to him, but he was a past master at repelling them. He told them in his most ministerial tone that they should emulate Benjamin Franklin, and go fly a kite.

DEAR ABBY: I dialed a wrong number by mistake and this man who answered had such a nice, friendly voice I talked to him for about an hour. He said he was 33 and not married. He also told me lots of other interesting things about himself. He's been in the service and has been practically all over the world. Toward the end he even got a little romantic and said he would like to meet me in person. I am only 17 but I look much older. I didn't give him my telephone number but I told him my name. He gave me his phone number and his first name, but not his last. Should I call him? I would really like to meet him.

"TELEPHONE SWEETHEART"

DEAR SWEETHEART: This man sounds as though he would make a lovely stranger. Keep it that way. Anonymous telephone trusts are shabby and dangerous. Unless you want to live shabbily and dangerously, forget you ever heard his voice.

DEAR ABBY: Why does my wife always take the kids' side against me? I told our older boy he couldn't have the car because he failed two subjects. The very next day my wife gave him permission to take the car. She said she wanted him to do some "errands" for her, but he kept the car all day and didn't get back with it until midnight.

This morning I told our 16-year-old daughter she could not go to her girl friend's slumber party because at the last one the police were called to pull the boys off the side of the house. Well, my wife told her she could go!

It looks like my wife is trying to cut me down in front of the kids just to be ugly. I would like your opinion on this.

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: No wonder so many children are confused about what's "right" and what's "wrong." Parents should NEVER fight in front of their children, even if one must give in knowing he's right. It's the responsibility of parents to make the "rules" for their children to follow, and to support each other in enforcing those rules. You and your wife need to iron out your own differences. She is probably punishing you for something that has nothing to do with the children.

DEAR ABBY: Is it still "in style" for a young man to ask the father of a young lady for her hand in marriage, or isn't that done any more? Our children, who are 19 and 21, tell us that this is "corny" and we are old-fashioned to expect it. We would like your opinion.

OLD-FASHIONED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: It may be "corny" but there's a kernel of good manners there. It is usually a friendly visit in which the young man tells the girl's father how he intends to provide for her. It's only a formality, however. When a fellow asks for a lady's "hand," he usually has both feet in the door.

UNCLE Star Has Unique Problem-Time for Degree

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Vaughn, television's "The Man from U.N.C.L.E.," is faced with a problem unique for show business.

If his series, which recently broke into the top 10 rated shows, continues successful, Vaughn's quest for a doctor of philosophy degree will be seriously delayed.

No actor, or actress, in memory ever was known to be working for a Ph.D. while actively pursuing a theatrical career.

But Vaughn, 33, acts by day and goes to the University of Southern California by night. He already has his bachelor and master degrees.

"It takes a good three years to get a doctorate, including one uninterrupted stretch of six months where I could let nothing interfere with my studies."

"Now the show is in orbit and I don't know when I'll ever get that six-month stretch. Meanwhile, I'll continue with my studies."

Vaughn is majoring in political science. Long before George Murphy decided to become U.S. senator, Vaughn wanted to run for public office. He figures he has a dozen years left as an actor.

"Then I'll be ready for politics," he says.

"I have been working hard in Democratic party politics for a long time and I think that it will take 10 or 12 years before I can make the move solely on the basis of knowledge and experience — and not as an actor."

Vaughn was a tireless campaigner for President Johnson during the campaign. He frequently makes trips to foreign countries. He spent the Christmas-New Year's holidays in the Soviet Union as the guest of Valery Brumel, the world champion high jumper.

Flanders Field Poppies
Editor, The Freeman

May is Poppy month. Members of the American Legion Auxiliary will join together to distribute the tiny red crepe paper poppy, a symbol to remind us always of the sacrifice made by our National defenders of three great conflicts. These little flowers are made by disabled veterans, who have been through one or more of these conflicts.

We, each and everyone should be very proud to wear a poppy in memory of those who have made the supreme sacrifice, and those in hospitals and homes throughout America.

The funds obtained from the distribution of the poppies enable the rehabilitation and child welfare programs to function at full effectiveness. This is our privilege to extend a helping hand to a child you have never seen — to be a veteran in a hospital — know that you care.

Belle Wood, Poppy Chairman.

Biologist Doubts River Striped Bass Palatable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are striped bass caught in the Hudson River palatable? An Interior Department biologist testified at a Federal Power Commission hearing Friday he doesn't think so.

Charles H. Walburg, the biologist, was cross-examined by an attorney for Consolidated Edison Co. at a hearing on overhead transmission lines and fish-protective devices planned in conjunction with a hydroelectric project near Cornwall, N.Y.

The commission has already licensed the firm to build the $160 million development at Storm King Mountain. The Sec. Hudson Preservation Conference, which contends the development would mar the scenic beauty of the Hudson Highlands has threatened court action in an attempt to block the company's plan.

Walburg earlier this week contended the fish-protective devices planned by Con Edison would be inadequate because, he said, the plant would be in a corner of the striped bass spawning area and downstream from a shad spawning area.

Peking Cancels Deal
TOKYO (AP) — Communist China has canceled a long-standing deal for purchase of a $27-million vinyl plant from Japan, charging that Premier Eisaku Sato's government is treating it like an enemy.

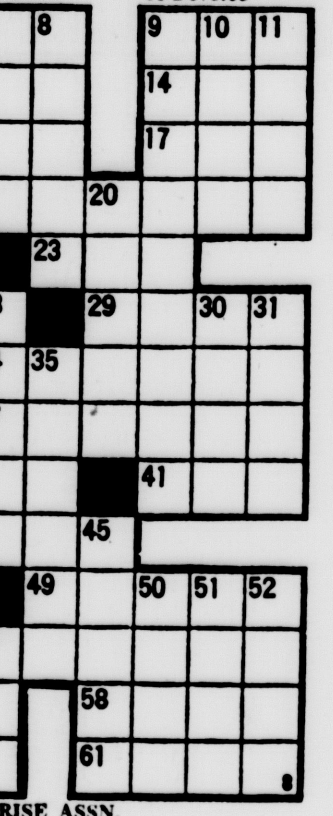

Notification of the cancellation was made to the Nichibo spinning company, which had made arrangements — to finance the sale through the government-controlled export — import bank.

The Japanese government repudiated the financing arrangement, which would have extended Peking a long-term credit at low interest.

Careful Play Makes Contract

By JACOB AND SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Vic Mitchell of New York has long been known as one of the most brilliant of our top experts, but in this year's Spring Nationals he had to take a back seat to his wife Jacqui. She started out the week by playing on the winning women's team, while the best Vic's men's team could do was to come in second.

Then when the major event — the Vanderbilt Cup — came along Vic's team lost out in the quarter finals while Jacqui's team went one round further by defeating the defending champions.

One of the key hands in that victory is shown today. Jacqui sitting South, passed over East's three-heart bid but when her partner persisted to four diamonds Jacqui revalued her hand and went on to game.

West doubled and opened the deuce of hearts.

Jacqui won with dummy's ace and studied the hand carefully. She had to lose a spade and a club. In order to make the contract it was up to her to ruff two hearts in dummy and to lead clubs twice in hope of finding either the king or queen in the East hand.

She solved her problem by leading the ten of clubs at trick two. East played the king and Jacqui won with the ace. She ruffed a heart, returned to her hand with a trump, ruffed her last heart, drew trumps, and conceded one club and one spade.

Jacqui won with dummy's ace and studied the hand carefully. She had to lose a spade and a club. In order to make the contract it was up to her to ruff two hearts in dummy and to lead clubs twice in hope of finding either the king or queen in the East hand.

Davi Plans June 26 Opener Here With Jimmy Piersall

Former Batboy Joins Manager For First Game

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

It may take some time getting here but there will be night baseball at Dietz stadium this summer.

This is the announcement by Fred J. Davi, the perennial promoter of independent baseball at the uptown ball orchard.

The announced opening date is Saturday, June 26, indicating that summer will be a little late this year.

But Davi has something special planned for the opener. It will be an appearance by his one-time bat boy Jimmy Piersall, who will be in the New York area with Los Angeles on that date.

JIMMY PIERSALL

Piersall will take part in that opening ceremony with details to be worked out later. Davi has nothing to worry about on that score. If there is no formal script to follow, Piersall isn't the kind of guy to get flustered. He can be relied upon to "improvise."

All-Local Team

Davi said the Kingston team would be made up of all-local talent recruited from the semipro, high school and college ranks. The increase of potential City Baseball League teams to a post-season high of seven also heightened the portly mentor.

Revival of interest in the twilight circuit reflects a new mood of area players, Davi thinks.

"The fact that so many Ulster County boys want to play baseball this year is a very encouraging development," said Davi. "I think that we can field a very fine club right here in Kingston without having to go out of town for high priced talent."

If someone were to ask Davi to name even a potential lineup, he couldn't tell you.

"I'm not particularly worried about that right now," he says. "The City League will have played quite a few ball games before June 26 and we should have a pretty fair idea of where we stand."

A Fred Davi-Jimmy Piersall reunion always has flamboyant overtones, as witness their reunion here a couple of years back.

Piersall served as batboy for Davi's famed wartime Waterbury Brasscos, who earned national sports fame by defeating four major league teams in exhibitions within one week.

Yankees Lose Twice, Drop to 9th Position

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, resembling anything but a team that is seeking an unprecedented sixth straight pennant, tumbled to ninth place Friday night, dropping a doubleheader to Washington 4-3 and 7-3.

The double defeat left the Yankees with five defeats in their last six games and an 8-12 record, 6½ games from the top and nine percentage points behind the eighth-place Senators.

Startling is the Yankees' team average of .213. That's 10 points better than the Senators' mark but only one point above the worst batting mark ever recorded in major league history.

The Chicago White Sox dipped that low in 1910. Elsewhere in the AL Friday night, Chicago trounced Minnesota 13-5, Cleveland defeated Kansas City 5-4 before losing 6-3. Rain washed out Detroit at Baltimore.

Pinch Hit Homer

Jim King won his third game in a week as a pinch hitter for the Senators, cracking a two-run homer in the seventh inning. That wiped out a 3-2 lead Cleve Boyer gave the Yankees with a homer in the fifth. Ronnie Kline, in relief of Mike McCormick, set down a New York threat in the ninth.

Mantle Has Leg Troubles, Return Still Indefinite

By BOB HORTON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Mickey can't run," said New York Yankee Manager Johnny Keane. "It's as simple as that."

Thus Keane acknowledged that the Yankees' $100,000 outfielder, Mickey Mantle, once again is having trouble with his legs. This time the diagnosis is a double pull of the muscles in his right leg.

The injury flared up dramatically Friday night after Mantle removed himself from the starting Yankee line-up for the first game of a doubleheader against the Washington Senators.

He went in as a pinch hitter at the eighth inning, rapped a line drive that shortstop Ed Brinkman knocked down and took three or four steps toward first base. Then, in obvious pain, he limped toward the dugout.

Keane said later Mantle had orders not to run if the ball went to the infield.

Played Doubleheader

Mantle's injury goes back to last Sunday when, in a doubleheader, he played nine innings in each game — rare for him. By the last inning or two of the nightcap, he was limping.

The Yankee trainer said the slugger had two knots, or bumps, on the leg.

Keane said the injury, if aggravated now, could knock Mantle out of action "for a long time." He said whether or not Mantle plays in the next few games will be decided on a day-to-day basis.

Mantle, now hitting .250 with four homers and nine runs batted in, has been plagued with injuries during his career. After the 1963 season he underwent an operation to remove loose cartilage from his left knee. He hit .303 last year with 35 homers and 111 RBI.

His absence, expected to extend through games here today and Sunday, leaves Keane lacking three of his heavyweights.

Catcher Elston Howard has undergone surgery to remove bone chips from his throwing arm and outfielder Roger Maris is out with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Several details have to be worked out, but it is possible that Downing might retain a one-sixth share of the pacer.

When Bret Hanover captured his race at Yonkers this week, members of the New York State breeders, headed by Vincent Essig of Chester, offered $800,000 for the pacer and said they would go even higher, if necessary.

The Slutskys then made their offer and are apparently not far from reaching a compatible agreement with Downing. If the deal is made, the brothers plan to race the horse and then use him for breeding.

Bengazi Hanover Is Yonkers Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Timely Knight had the audacity to interrupt a family affair Friday night as he was the only non-Hanover horse to finish in the money in the top two harness races in New York State.

Otherwise, it was Hanover, Hanover, Hanover and Hanover.

More precisely, it was Bengazi Hanover taking first place in the $20,000 Henry T. Adios Pace at Yonkers Raceway with a time of 2:01.25. Timely Knight was second and Lyss Hanover third. Bengazi Hanover returned $4.80.

And, of course, everybody gets to finish his back swing for better or worse.

"And, of course, the plan has immediate benefits for the contestants. Total purse for this year's tour has been enriched by about $500,000 because of the package, or 20 per cent more than the 1964 prize money."

In 1965 13 meets are being shown in the package (as many others, such as the Masters, are televised on their own previous contracts). The outlet is Sports Network ("an independent is more flexible to work with") and 140 stations will carry the action.

And, of course, everybody gets to finish his back swing for better or worse.

Worked out by Martin Carmichael, a lawyer who departed CBS to form a consulting firm, the package will hopefully: (1) protect against saturating the viewer with golf; (2) eliminate competing live golf shows at the same hour; (3) centralize exposure efforts of 30 PGA tournament sponsors and (4) protect the player from unwarranted television invasion during play.

Says Carmichael: "We've sold our plan to three blue chip sponsors for over $2.5 million and this is indication the idea is successful from the standpoint of money."

"But the real test is what we can do for golf in the long pull. We're hoping that proper management will make the game even more attractive to TV audiences five years from now."

Slutskys May Purchase Bret Hanover

$850 Thousand

Offered by

Nevele Owners

By ED PALLADINO

Freeman Sports Staff

Ben J. and Julius Slutsky, owners of the famed Nevele

Country Club near Ellenville, will be in Cleveland Monday and are expected to make a bid of about $850,000 to Richard Downing of Shaker Heights, owner of the undefeated pacer

Bret Hanover.

The Slutskys are making the trip with driver-trainer Stanley

Dancer and Leon Greenberg, Administrative Vice President of Monticello Raceway. Greenberg will not attend as a representative of the track but as the attorney in the transaction, which, if completed, will become the biggest ever in standardbred history.

Several years ago, a syndicate purchased Adios Butler for about $600,000. If the Slutskys are successful in their attempt to purchase Bret Hanover, the price will be $250,000 above the previous record.

Though the Slutskys own the famed Nevele Acres Stable, they are not purchasing Bret Hanover for the purpose of adding the two-year old champion to the stable.

Unbeaten Last Year

Bret, the son of Adios-Brena Hanover, won 24 of 24 starts as a two-year old, banking $173,250 in the process. He was voted Horse of the Year honors by the United States Harness Writers Association, the first horse ever honored at that age.

Early this week, Bret made his initial start in the $25,000 Cane Pace Prep and won handily in 2:02.1. He is a top heavy favorite to capture the Cane Pace Wednesday night at Yonkers Raceway.

The Slutskys hope to close the deal for Bret prior to the Cane Pace and for that reason are going to see the owner on Monday.

Dancer, one of the top drivers in the country, made the arrangements and will be the trainer and driver of the pacer when the deal has been finalized.

The first driver to win $1 million in purse money, Dancer feels that Bret Hanover can become the first standardbred in history to win a $1 million.

Might Keep a Share

Several details have to be worked out, but it is possible that Downing might retain a one-sixth share of the pacer.

Services Set Monday For Late Jim Krebs

DALLAS (AP) — Funeral services for Jim Krebs, who made basketball a major sport at Southern Methodist, will be held Monday at Highland Park Methodist Church.

Krebs, 30, was killed Thursday by a falling tree in the Los Angeles suburb of Woodland Hills.

He was helping a neighbor fell a tree. The neighbor, Robert Miller, said the tree toppled the wrong way and fell against the house. As they tried to remove it, the tree slid down and struck them. Miller was able to get free and summon help.

Krebs, SMU's only All-American basketball player, led his team to three successive Southwest Conference championships in 1955, 1956 and 1957.

The 6-8 star played professionally for the Lakers seven years. He had worked as a bank loan executive since his retirement last year.

Rose Schatzel's 594 Tops League

Rose Schatzel opened with a nifty 224 and added 179 and 191 for 594 in the Ferraro Women's Invitational league.

The 500 club included Martha Petersen 529, Lois Runge 523, Irene Maurer 519, Jean Isgru 503 and Marion Sanford 502.

Others, Roberta Glass 496, Gayle Keator 492, Sis Balash 488, Terry Becker 486, Emelie Gray 483, Mickey Bruckner 482, Clara Richard 203-477, Gerry Reed 475, Anne Hinkley 460, Kathy Diamond 458.

Results: Restaurant 1, Capri 2, Tommy's Restaurant 1, Franz-Rambler Sales 1½; Roland Augustine Insurance 2, Ulster Tool and Die 1; Oehler's Mt. Lodge 3, WGB Oil Clarifier 0.

BOB LIND was high shooter in the Friday Night Fun league with 197-180-191-568. Van Porter slammed 551, Frank Perry 547, Ken Macier 526, Barbara Buser 507 and Edith Lawrence 474.

The golfer found the game rather difficult. At the first hole he hit a new ball so far out of bounds that it was never found. At the second hole another new ball disappeared into tangled undergrowth. A third new ball went into a deep ditch. At the fourth, where a deep pool intervened between tee and hole, his companion said, "Companion—It's quite a carry over the pool. Don't you think you should use an old ball?" Golfer (shaking his head ruefully).—Old man, I've never had one.

Mrs. Newlywed had her first venture at cooking dinner in her own home, which passed successfully, and they sat in silence at opposite ends of the table, wondering at the novelty of it all and gazing at each other.

Mrs. Newlywed—Honestly, honestly—on your word of honor—did you like it, darling? Mr. Newlywed—(swallowing a lump).—Never enjoyed anything so much in my life. Mrs. Newlywed—Everything, everything—from soup to pudding. Mr. Newlywed—(bravely).—Every mouthful, from soup to pudding. Mrs. Newlywed—Oh, I am so relieved, then! You see I forgot to order the syrup for the sauce for the pudding and I had to have something so I took your cough syrup and I was so afraid you'd taste it! League Meeting Has Little New About Zoning Paul Domville chairman of the Woodstock Zoning Commission, observed at the League of Women Voters information meeting that the day coincided with the 25th anniversary of the first attempt at zoning in the Town of Woodstock.

Following the meeting which attracted a predominantly female audience, it seemed that zoning remains an illusory topic and little new information could be added to that already known—or undisclosed to the public as yet.

The meeting was conducted under the usual LWV format of written questions, which were screened by Mrs. George Rusk and Mrs. Manuel Bromberg.

Members of the forum's panel were: Mrs. Carolyn Wilson, Malcolm, Phyllis Wittner and Paul Domville, a good cross section of both the Planning Board and Zoning Commission. Mrs. Frank Falknor of the League served as the moderator.

A question posed by Mrs. Jean Rickard of Wittenberg, seeking information if a study had been made to determine cost of implementing and enforcing the proposed zoning ordinance, elicited the reply that it wouldn't cost "very much" but no specifics were available.

Question Unanswered

The question of the present status of the proposed zoning ordinance also went unanswered on the grounds that it was under the jurisdiction of the Town Board. At two recent Town Board meetings (March and April), it was reported that the revised draft of the zoning ordinance "is being studied" for legality by the Kingston law firm of Beck and Ewig.

No information was available either on any changes the Town Board may have made in the original document presented to it by the Zoning Commission before it was dissolved by law.

In brief speeches before the question and answer period, panel members dwelt on the need of zoning from several viewpoints: relationship between planning and zoning, limitations on the Planning Board without zoning; high cost of doing it without zoning. The objectives of the Master Plan were reviewed.

Following the meeting, some persons in the audience protested that their questions had been edited or combined with others.

In addition to the three questions above, the following also were directed to the experts, among approximately 18 questions in all:

Q—Won't such strict supervision restrict buyers. A—It was pointed out that zoning protects land values; Q—If I own 1.6 acres of land in a 2-acre district, will I be prevented from building my own home? A—No, such a lot is considered a non-conforming lot and the owner is not restricted from building a home.

Q—Would zoning have something to say about pollution of water ways? A—There is a regulation in the proposed ordinance which restricts seepage beds, dumping of trash within 30 feet of a stream bed.

Q—Please clarify the commercialization of Bradley Meadows; A—There is a difference between the Master Plan and the Zoning Map. On the Brown and Anthony zoning map they had most of the meadow zoned for

Nancy Wyner Is Set for Recital In NY Town Hall

Nancy Wyner, Woodstock mezzo soprano, will be featured in a joint concert, under the auspices of the Concert Artists Guild and Town Hall, on Saturday, May 15, at 2 p. m. at Town Hall, West 43rd Street in New York City.

Mrs. Wyner will be accompanied at the Steinway piano by her husband, Yehudi Wyner, who has received many coveted awards on his own in the fields of musical composition, arranging and performing.

During the first portion of the program, she will sing selections by Monteverdi and Schubert. Following the intermission, she will return to sing songs by Hindemith, Elliot Carter and two by her husband: the "Psalm 119" and "Halleluya."

Mrs. Wyner is a graduate of Boston University and has also studied at the Third Street Settlement Music School on an Alumni Scholarship. In 1963, she was the recipient of the New York Singing Teaching Association Young Artists Award and the following year won First Prize in the New York YWCA Studio Club auditions competition.

For the past two seasons, she has performed with the Turnau Opera Players here in Woodstock and also gave a special lieder concert here.

3 Local Artists In Gallery News

Three Woodstock artists are making news in New York gallery circles these days.

Sal Sirugo of Zena and a relative newcomer, Rocco Armento, are among the six artists represented in the Invitational Show at the Dorsky Gallery on Madison Avenue at 82nd Street. The show which opened on April 27 will run through May 29. Gallery hours at Tuesday through Saturday, from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Meanwhile, Grace G. Swank, Woodstock artist who resides on Timber Street, is exhibiting at the World's Fair.

Miss Swank, a member of the National Association of Women Artists, also has a painting on view in the Association's exhibit at the Colorama Gallery in Bourbon Street in the Louisiana Pavilion at the Fair.

The exhibit runs in two sections from April 21 to May 20; and from May 21 to June 20. The Colorama Gallery is the only art gallery in the Fair.

Wagner Appeals Anew for Passage Of Off-Track Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner made a last-ditch appeal today for passage of his off-track betting bill.

At the same time, Wagner said in another statement that he plans to ask the Democratic legislative leaders to reconsider a new code of ethics bill this session.

Despite Senate Majority Leader Joseph Zaretzki's position that the off-track betting bill hasn't a chance, Wagner said.

"I urge all New York City legislators, regardless of party, to vote for it, and I hope that Upstate legislators will vote for it, too. This legislation can provide much-needed revenue for the state as well as the city."

In his statement on the ethics bill, Wagner said it was "most unfortunate" that the legislation introduced by Manhattan Democratic Assemblyman Daniel Kelly had been rejected by the Legislature.

"I hope," said Wagner, "there is some way of getting effective reconsideration on this important legislation. I shall certainly recommend the exploration of such a course of action to the legislative leaders."

Puzzled by Crash

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Civil Aeronautics Board investigators know what caused the crash of a small airplane and a helicopter Sunday in nearby Westerlo, killing three men, but they don't know why the aircraft crashed.

Fred Ryan, regional representative of the CAB, said Friday a rotor blade on the helicopter struck the plane. But Ryan said he did not know why the two came so close together.

Killed were Dwight C. Hanney, 47, of Westerlo, owner and pilot of the helicopter; Westerlo Justice of the Peace William H. Furman, 35, who was Hanney's passenger; and State Police Investigator Leonard R. Garra-mone, 33, of Voorheesville, who was piloting the plane.

Business Week In Review

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some important questions arose during the week in the aftermath of the interim steel labor agreement.

They included:
Will there be a strike after next fall?

Time May Be Vital

How much will a final contract settlement amount to? Will the current high demand for steel flatten out?

The United Steelworkers of America and the major steel producers agreed to extend the May 1 strike deadline at least four months.

The price to the steelmakers was a guaranteed 11 1/2-cent-an-hour wage boost.

The extra four months will give the union and company representatives time to continue negotiations which were interrupted for two months last winter by the union's hot presidential election.

Some industry sources think the chances are good that an economy-jarring strike can be avoided.

President Johnson issued a report suggesting that the steel industry could raise wages about 3 per cent a year without increasing prices.

This report came from his Council of Economic Advisers, which had been studying the situation for four months.

The President said the report showed that the prosperity of the whole economy will hinge on a noninflationary wage settlement and on the "continuing over-all stability of steel prices."

Some Dissatisfied

Officials of the steel industry and the union immediately expressed dissatisfaction with the report.

Steel executives felt that the report ignored what they contend is a need for higher profits to finance expansion and modernization.

The union felt it's workers were entitled to a bigger boost in wages and fringe benefits.

Reports from the industry said that lifting of the strike threat has had little effect on business so far. Major mills reported only a few instances of customers asking to defer shipments of steel scheduled for May and June or to cancel orders.

The trade publication Iron Age said that steel shipments will set a record of 51 million tons in the first half of this year. It reported that most users will hold their inventories at present levels with possibly some building to come in May and June.

Steel production during the week dipped to 2,775,000 tons from the record 2,806,000 of the previous week.

Autos Keep Zooming

The automobile industry kept on zooming. Production rose to an estimated 212,200 cars, compared with 205,020 the previous week and 177,893 a year ago.

Car sales held to their fast pace with dealers delivering 798,805 in April against 752,528 a year earlier.

Rosy earnings reports for the first quarter continued to pour out of corporation meetings. This helped the stock market spurt to new peaks.

The Labor Department reported that the rate of unemployment in mid-April edged up to 4.9 per cent of the labor force from 4.7 per cent in March. The rise was attributed to a more-than-expected rise in joblessness among teen-agers.

New factory orders and shipments reached record levels in March, according to the Commerce Department. New orders climbed to an annual rate of $40,662,000,000 from $39,469,000,000 in February. Shipments rose to $40,340,000,000 from $38,693,000,000.

Woman Marks 105th

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "I am doing pretty well," said Mrs. Abbie Eliza Wright as she observed her 105th birthday Friday.

"But I wish I could see good enough to read my Bible," added Mrs. Wright, who was cheerful despite arthritis and her failing eyesight.

Split-Level Home Has All Elements for Family Living

By JACK McLENEY

The split-level home has a number of advantages over other designs — but did you know this type of home may also be built on flat terrain?

That being the case, you may look upon the split-level house with renewed interest, and so Associated Architects today presents a fine example of such a dwelling, "The Evanston."

There is nothing tiny about this home. Its total cubage adds up to 27,000 cubic feet. There are 1,550 square feet of living space on two levels, and this is almost matched by the 1,480 square feet of basement area, garage included.

Its three bedrooms are placed on the higher level for greater privacy. The living room and kitchen are easily accessible because of their location on the ground level. Connecting the levels is a short flight of steps. Another set of stairs leads to the basement, where there is a huge laundry and workshop. At this basement level there is a full two-car garage, convenient because it spans directly to the house, and economical because it is a part of the house structure.

Both the dining and living rooms are separate units, yet they communicate to form a room shaped like the letter "L." The effect is a single large room running the entire width of the house. A large arch between the rooms indicates that they are meant for different things, yet you lose none of the "big" effect.

The kitchen in the "Evanston" will serve you beautifully. Most of its working appliances and counters are arranged in "U" shape for step saving—everything is practically within arm's reach. A big window set over the double sink will help to lighten your routine chores.

All three bedrooms have exposures on two walls, which is not always the case in the houses you see. There is a good deal of wall space, enough for the furniture you will want in your bedrooms. Also, the closets are wardrobe size, and have
